Racial Discrimination on Jobs Is the Main Item of Concern

Washington, May 19 (AP)—President Truman appears to have knocked in the head a plan by Democratic National Chairman Frank E. McKinney to compromise the party-splitting battle over civil rights.

Truman's call in a Saturday night speech to the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) for enactment of proposals he has submitted to Congress already has set off a determined drive to write a vigorous civil rights plank into the Democratic platform at Chicago.

Sen. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, a member of the preconvention platform drafting group, told this reporter:

"You can say for me, I shall fight for strong civil rights plank."

Two southern senators who oppose Truman's proposals for a Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC) with enforcement powers to prevent racial job discrimination, said McKinney had taken a conciliatory attitude on the issue that spawned the States Rights movement in 1948.

Sen. Walter George of Georgia said he doubts now that McKinney's view will prevail.

"I hope the convention will adopt a plank something like that proposed by former Sen. Francis Myers in 1948," George said. "But if it adopts the 1948 plank, the action will be very, very objectionable to the South."

Myers had proposed a plank generally committing the party to advance civil rights, but Sen. Hubert Humphrey forced through the 1948 convention a statement demanding action on Truman's legislative proposals.

This caused a Dixie walkout and was followed by a States Rights campaign that took 39 electoral votes away from Truman in South Carolina, Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama.

Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama, who has fought to keep his state's party organization within the national group, said he believes a compromise still is possible.

"The members of the drafting committee are able, temperate, well-balanced persons who can work out a platform acceptable to the different viewpoints," he declared.

McKinney supervised the naming of a preliminary drafting committee described by other convention officials as down-the-middle on the civil rights issue.

Humphrey, leader of the 1948 battle, was left off the committee, as were his 1948 associates.

Paris, May 19 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower went to The Netherlands today to bid farewell to Dutch forces under his NATO command.

The Sun Beams on Lovely Queen

The big moment of the Kingston High School May Day exercises came when the lovely Queen, Miss Gertrude Netherwood, arrived with her court at the municipal stadium Friday afternoon. Her golden locks shining in the bright sunshine, and attired in a long, flowing white gown terminating in a train, and carrying a bouquet of American Beauty roses, the May Queen made a charming picture, as she gracefully stepped with great poise, to her hemlock banked throne, followed by her honor attendant, Miss Nancy Bryant, and members of the court. Four Are Injured In Auto Accidents Over Last Weekend

Four persons were injured in one of four automobile accidents in the city over the weekend.

Three of the cars involved struck poles and another ran into a fence.

Kenneth Donnelly, 35, of Albany avenue extension, Bernard Donnelly, 27, of 39 West Union street, and Harry Bruck, 26, of Albany avenue extension were reported today in "apparently fair" condition at Kingston Hospital where they we admitted after the car in which they were riding struck a pole near the Gene Perry gas station, 550 Albany avenue, early Sunday.

A police report at 2:45 a. m., said the car owned and "apparently operated" by Kenneth Donnelly, was headed south on Albany avenue at the time of the mishap.

Kenneth Donnelly suffered head injuries and lacerations of the face, Bruck suffered an eye injury and a hand laceration and

Old Grads Mingle With Students at Rites in Reunion for 1952 Tercentennary

The May Day exercises of the Kingston High School at the municipal stadium on Friday last marked an epoch in the history of education in this city and county. The annual event is memorable because in its observance of the 300th anniversary of the city, it included the first reunion of graduates of Ulster, Kingston and Poughkeepsie Academies and the Kingston High School.

Even the weatherman cooperated on this auspicious occasion with a beautiful, sunny spring day. The strong breezes, however, kept the folks busy retrieving hats and banners.

One Report Is Building May Be Used as Factory

John Seufert, sales manager of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co., said today that tentative plans by the company call for removal of the 24 bowling alleys and equipment from the Ruzzo Bowlatorium any time after May 27.

The state bowling tournament now in progress ends May 26, and Seufert said that "Unless something is worked out" to keep the alleys and equipment in the Grand street building, it is planned to start moving it out within days after completion of the tournament.

As of May 7 when the new corporation took over the bowlatorium building the alleys and equipment through a public auction had become the property of the Brunswick - Balke - Collender Co. The new corporation, which owns the building is headed by Attorney George Kaufman.

Honored Agreement

The alleys and equipment could have been removed by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co., at the time the new corporation took title to the building, but since a contract had existed between the old corporation and the New York State Bowling Association, the bowling equipment house agreed to let everything stay pending completion of the tournament.

Meanwhile, unofficial reports, indicate interest in the property for industrial purposes, but it is also reported that efforts are under way to keep the alleys operating.

Future Undecided

One report said a Poughkeepsie concern working on war contracts has inspected the property with intentions to buy. Differences of opinion were also reported as to whether to move toward keeping the alleys intact or selling for other purposes.

It is understood that the asking price range is from $250,000 to $300,000, and it was reported also that efforts to lease the alleys for $18,000 a year were unsuccessful.

Schirick Granted Stay

It was learned also today that it required a stay by Justice Harry E. Schirick to insure the New York State Association that the tournament would be completed.

The uncertain future of the alleys, it was learned also, has city bowling leagues in a turmoil, because they must determine soon where they stand for the 1952-53 season.

The information on the bowling equipment company's tentative plans to remove the alleys was obtained from Seufert at his New York office.

Material Allotted For New Bank by Production Office

Washington, May 19—Kingston was represented in Washington today among allotments of controlled materials for construction of 1069 commercial, religious, entertainment and municipal projects with an estimated nationwide cost of more than $337,000,000, the National Production Authority announced.

One Kingston project granted a controls allotment was the Rondout National Bank for a bank building at an estimated cost of $90,000. The allotment is for materials to be delivered in the third quarter of 1952 or in subsequent quarters.

550 Projects

The NPA said today that in addition to actions annouced today there are approximately 550 applications with an estimated value of approximately $237,000,000, about 250 of which with an estimated value of $60,000,000 for recreation or amusement projects, which have been under virtual ban since Oct. 27, 1950.

The total allotments in New York state was 78 with an estimated cost of more than $33,340,000.

Will Hear Ridgway

Washington, May 19 (AP)—All 96 members of the Senate have been invited to attend a closed-door session of the Armed Services Committee Wednesday at which Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway will be questioned about the Koje Island incident. Sen. Byrd (D.-Va.), a member of the Armed Services Committee, said in an interview over radio station WMBG, Richmond, Va., last night that the committee already has started an inquiry into the Koje incident.

Last Underpass Pour Slated Friday

Joseph L. Thomas, construction superintendent for Lipsett Inc., Broadway underpass contractor, said today that unless rain holds up work, all remaining lanes of concrete will be poured by Friday.

Men were working today on the forms for the next pouring scheduled to start Wednesday. The lines are 180 feet long and are in the center of the underpass near the two bridges.

City forces recently completed pavement work near the approaches to the underpass, and it was reported today that the block on John street between Wall and Fair streets, on the uptown project, would be completed.

Munsan, Korea, May 19 (AP)—The top United Nations truce negotiator today labeled an "out and out" lie a communist denial that the Reds had agreed to allied screening of captured Reds.

Inside the Panmunjom conference tent, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior UN delegate, told the Reds:

"Had the results been to your liking you would have enthusiastically welcomed the product of the screening."

North Korean Gen. Nam Il replied:

"It is inconceivable and nobody would believe that our side who is firmly opposed to the retention of our captured personnel by your side under whatever name could have agreed directly or indirectly to your so-called screening."

A recent allied quizzing of Red prisoners of war showed that nearly 100,000 North Koreans and Chinese prisoners said they prefer death to returning to communism.

The issue of exchanging prisoners blocks an amistice.

English Dominated All Trade for 200 Years on Mainland

London, May 19 (AP)—Worn out by almost three years of constant Communist harassment, British business today was reported planning to abandon its 800 million dollar investment on the Chinese mainland and get out. The reported withdrawal, however, will not affect Britain's diplomatic recognition of the Peiping regime.

London newspapers said Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will tell Parliment tomorrow that British businessmen see no use trying to hang on in the vast Far Eastern country where, until the Reds took over, they had been dominant figures in foreign trade for more than 200 years.

Will Try to Sell

British holdings in China are estimated at 300 million pounds (840 million dollars). The newspaper reports said the British owners will try to sell the holdings to Chinese government agencies but that no one is optimistic.

The Communists ordered the seizure of all American properties on the Chinese mainland at the end of 1950. No compensation was paid.

The Reds have seized outright only one British holding, however, the Asiatic Petroleum Co., in April, 1951. This was in retaliation for British seizure in Hong Kong of a tanker formerly owned by the Chinese Nationalist government and claimed by the Reds.

All Commerce Included

The properties the British are reported now planning to give up are located chiefly in Shanghai, Tientsin, Hankow, Canton and a sprinkling of smaller cities. Belonging to firms covering almost the entire field of commerce, they include factories, shipyards, warehouses, hotels and office buildings.

Formerly 10,000 Britons ran the holdings in China. Now the scattered British colony totals only about 120 persons.

The withdrawal would follow a constant and progressive Red campaign against the British businessmen since the Communists took over. The foreign firms have been plagued by special taxes, fines and government-ordered exorbitant wage scales for the Chinese employes.

The plane went out Friday to help a navy plane which reported engine trouble. The naval craft landed safely.

Appointed as the new Kingston district superintendent was D. G. Davies, formerly of Middletown. He replaces the Rev. Burton F. Tarr who will be transferred to Middletown.

New Ulster county Methodist ministers include the Rev. F. C. St. John, Port Ewen, Esopus, Rifton; the Rev. Kenneth Dearstine, Woodstock, Shady, Wittenberg and Willow; the Rev. Ex-New York Cop Is Named Pastor for Newburgh Area

New York, May 19 (AP)—The Newburgh area's newest minister is a 46-year-old New York city policeman who has been working toward the ministry for years.

He is John A. Parsons, of the Bronx, who yesterday received final ordination in the Methodist Church from Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam.

His first charge is the Mountainville Methodist Church, near Newburgh. He expects to take over there in the fall, after a vacation following retirement from his 22-year tour of duty as a policeman.

"I intended to become a preacher when I was 16," he said yesterday. "But my mother was a widow—Dad died when I was 3—with four children, and I had to go to work to contribute to her support.

"My brother had been a policeman, and there was a chance for security and advancement in that kind of work. But the question of religion kept cropping up in my mind and to satisfy these urgings I became active in church work.

"Then I decided I had to drop everything else, if necessary, to satisfy that urge."

But the policeman-parson-to-be found he could manage other things, too, though it took a little time.

Ex-New York Cop Is Named Pastor for Newburgh Area

New York, May 19 (AP)—The Newburgh area's newest minister is a 46-year-old New York city policeman who has been working toward the ministry for years.

He is John A. Parsons, of the Bronx, who yesterday received final ordination in the Methodist Church from Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam.

His first charge is the Mountainville Methodist Church, near Newburgh. He expects to take over there in the fall, after a vacation following retirement from his 22-year tour of duty as a policeman.

"I intended to become a preacher when I was 16," he said yesterday. "But my mother was a widow—Dad died when I was 3—with four children, and I had to go to work to contribute to her support.

"My brother had been a policeman, and there was a chance for security and advancement in that kind of work. But the question of religion kept cropping up in my mind and to satisfy these urgings I became active in church work.

"Then I decided I had to drop everything else, if necessary, to satisfy that urge."

But the policeman-parson-to-be found he could manage other things, too, though it took a little time.

He married a Virigina girl

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 19 (AP)—Small gains and equally small losses were pretty evenly mixed today in a stock market that showed few signs of life.

Trading was so quiet that it was difficult to establish a trend. The tendency, however, was a little toward the upside.

The list was sprinkled with prices that were unchanged from the previous close.

The narrow and mixed trend ran through the entire list.

Move Underway to Petition For Ulster Water District

A petition for establishment of the Richmond and Lincoln Parks Water District in the town of Ulster, north of Kingston, is now being circulated among residents of the proposed water district. When sufficient signatures have been secured to the petition it will be presented to the town board of the town of Ulster, requesting that the town board take steps toward the establishment of a water district.

In order that the town board may act, at least one half of the assessed valuation of all taxable real property in the proposed district must be represented by the signers.

A move was commenced some time ago among the membership of Ulster Hose Company, No. 5, Town of Ulster, for establishment of the water district and W. E. Davis is chairman of the water committee of Ulster Hose Company. Several copies of the petition are being circulated for signature.

For Homes, Hydrants

Establishment of a water district was proposed to provide water for household use and also hydrant use for fire protection in this rapidly expanding suburb of Kingston.

Many residents of the area have long sought a supply of water on the theory that the area is rapidly building up and a suitable supply of safe water should be provided for household use, mercantile use and also for fire protection. The areas in the town of Ulster just north of Kingston has been one of the most rapidly expanding suburban areas and home construction has been extremely large.

At present homes are provided with water from shallow wells. The area is not served by a sewage disposal system and septic tanks are in common use in the area. A water supply system, safe for human consumption, has long been anticipated by home owners of the area.

A tentative plan for the system has been prepared by E. I. McCaffrey, consulting engineer, who has made an extensive survey of the area.

That plan was recently completed and would provide for a supply of water from a system of wells located within the district and pressure would be provided by means of a stand-pipe, probably located on the heights off the East Chester By-Pass. The location of the water supply has not been determined but could come from wells in the westerly bounds of the district or from an ample supply which seems available in the By-Pass area.

Under the tentative plan prepared by Engineer McCaffery, the bounds of the district would generally be from a point at the city line near Flatbush avenue and the East Chester Street By-Pass along the By-pass to the intersection of the Saugerties road at the traffic signal and thence northerly along the easterly sides of Route 9W to Staten Island Inn. The bounds would include properties on both sides of the By-pass and Route 9W. From Staten Island Inn the bounds would run west crossing the West Shore railroad and then following along the railroad tracks on the easterly side of the railroad to the Neighborhood road. From the Neighborhood road the district would run to the Myron Boice property and thence westerly along the property lines of Myron and Pratt Boice to the Esopus creek. The district would follow the creek upstream to the Kingston city line and thence along the city line to the point of beginning.

There is a map accompanying the petition which defines the exact lines of the proposed district.

Included in plan is provision for a purification plant, water mains, distribution pipes and hydrants as well as the stand pipe and wells.

The plan calls for development of a ground water supply on an area of about four acres to give ample protection to the supply and prevent outside contamination. A stand pipe on the elevation off the By-Pass would provide ample pressure for domestic use and also fire protection.

$450,000 Cost Estimated

The estimated cost of the proposed plant is $450,000 and the petition recites that the "maximum amount to be expended in construction of the water works, and acquiring lands" as the district is now laid out will be that sum.

Following a survey made by McCaffrey, it is estimated that the supply should consist of sufficient wells to supply a guaranteed 400 gallons of water per minute. Water would be delivered to consumers through a meter system and the distribution system should be through six and 10 inch mains.

$17,320 by Taxation

In his survey McCaffrey sets up a plan for financing the construction and amortizing the cost over a 30-year period through a bond issue. This plan sets forth figures which indicate that the annual cost for the first five years would be $25,300, with an estimated revenue from a minimum of 400 users at $20 per year of $8,000, and the balance of $17,320 to be raised by taxation. This amount would vary with the number of consumers and the volume of water consumption. Tentative figures indicate the cost per $1,000 of assessment would be about $14 for Water District Tax.

Would Cut Insurance

A water system with fire hydrants would decrease the insurance rate in the district. It is estimated a home insured for $7,000 would save $7 on fire insurance premium.

Broken down to an individual property level it is estimated that the cost per month to a consumer owning a property assessed at $1,600, would be $2.97 for water consumed and taxes. This would make the average cost per year to that individual slightly over $35 for water consumed, water district tax and fire protection.

Lloyd R. LeFever is attorney for the proposed water district.

It is expected that signatures will be sought quickly so that the proposal may be submitted to the town board for its consideration at an early date if the necessary consent of property owners is secured.

Would Attract Industry

It was pointed out by residents who are interested in establishment of the water district that an ample supply of water in the area would be an incentive to industry to locate in the area and with the coming of additional industry and larger consumption of water the cost would be materially reduced to the individual user.

Highland Man Is Held For Auto Violations

Jake Pinson, 43, of Highland, was arrested on charges of being an unlicensed operator and operating a vehicle with inadequate brakes following a slight accident on Route 44-55 two and a half miles west of Highland about 8:30 p. m. Saturday, state police reported.

Troopers said the arrest followed a sideswiping collision between automobiles driven by Pinson and Richard Altizio, 42, of Highland. No personal injuries were reported.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Edward Brodsky of the town of Rosendale, Pinson pleaded guilty to the charges and was given sentences of $25 fine or 25 days in jail on the license charge and $15 fine or 15 days on the inadequate brake charge, troopers said. He was sent to the Ulster county jail pending payment of the fines.

Picket-Line Siege Off

Pearl River, N. Y., May 19 (AP)—A compromise wage agreement early today brought an end to a picket-line siege at the Lederle Laboratories, where an airlift was used to feed self-imprisoned plant workers and the research animals. Automobiles and employes started moving in and out of the plant through token picket lines only a few minutes after Federal Mediator Thomas G. Daughtery announced the settlement. The strike started Wednesday, and on Thursday the company reported picket line disorders.

Measle Epidemic Is Dropping Off

Practically all common communicable diseases are present in Ulster county but none is in epidemic proportion. The measle epidemic which has been sweeping the area is dropping off and in April there were only seven cases reported in Kingston and 18 in the county.

Chickenpox still continues to be present, 15 cases being reported in the city in April and five in the county. Mumps also are prevalent with 13 cases in the city and five in the county during April.

Polio also made its appearance in the county in April when, according to the Health Department monthly report, there were two cases in the county. One was cared for at home and the second was hospitalized at Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie. There had been one case previously reported since the first of the year.

Also during April the first case of rabies reported in the county in three months came from the town of New Paltz where a raccoon bit a dog. The examination of the animal head disclosed the raccoon was rabid.

During April there were 12 cases of cancer reported, one case of German measles, one partussis, three cases of pneumonia and four cases of strep sore throat including scarlet fever.

Urges Letters to 'Curtain'

Albany, N. Y., May 19 (AP)—Gov. Dewey urges Americans to help "our struggle against false propaganda from the Kremlin" by writing letters to friends and relatives behind the Iron Curtain. Dewey noted in a weekend statement that the Common Council for American Unity had designated May 19 to 25 as "Letters From America Week." "It has been established that these letters, describing day to day life in America, are the most eloquent and effective contradiction of Communist lies and afford folks in the old countries the best possible evidence of freedom that actually exists here."

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 19 (AP)—Small gains and equally small losses were pretty evenly mixed today in a stock market that showed few signs of life.

Trading was so quiet that it was difficult to establish a trend. The tendency, however, was a little toward the upside.

The list was sprinkled with prices that were unchanged from the previous close.

The narrow and mixed trend ran through the entire list.

Move Underway to Petition For Ulster Water District

A petition for establishment of the Richmond and Lincoln Parks Water District in the town of Ulster, north of Kingston, is now being circulated among residents of the proposed water district. When sufficient signatures have been secured to the petition it will be presented to the town board of the town of Ulster, requesting that the town board take steps toward the establishment of a water district.

In order that the town board may act, at least one half of the assessed valuation of all taxable real property in the proposed district must be represented by the signers.

A move was commenced some time ago among the membership of Ulster Hose Company, No. 5, Town of Ulster, for establishment of the water district and W. E. Davis is chairman of the water committee of Ulster Hose Company. Several copies of the petition are being circulated for signature.

For Homes, Hydrants

Establishment of a water district was proposed to provide water for household use and also hydrant use for fire protection in this rapidly expanding suburb of Kingston.

Many residents of the area have long sought a supply of water on the theory that the area is rapidly building up and a suitable supply of safe water should be provided for household use, mercantile use and also for fire protection. The areas in the town of Ulster just north of Kingston has been one of the most rapidly expanding suburban areas and home construction has been extremely large.

At present homes are provided with water from shallow wells. The area is not served by a sewage disposal system and septic tanks are in common use in the area. A water supply system, safe for human consumption, has long been anticipated by home owners of the area.

A tentative plan for the system has been prepared by E. I. McCaffrey, consulting engineer, who has made an extensive survey of the area.

That plan was recently completed and would provide for a supply of water from a system of wells located within the district and pressure would be provided by means of a stand-pipe, probably located on the heights off the East Chester By-Pass. The location of the water supply has not been determined but could come from wells in the westerly bounds of the district or from an ample supply which seems available in the By-Pass area.

Under the tentative plan prepared by Engineer McCaffery, the bounds of the district would generally be from a point at the city line near Flatbush avenue and the East Chester Street By-Pass along the By-pass to the intersection of the Saugerties road at the traffic signal and thence northerly along the easterly sides of Route 9W to Staten Island Inn. The bounds would include properties on both sides of the By-pass and Route 9W. From Staten Island Inn the bounds would run west crossing the West Shore railroad and then following along the railroad tracks on the easterly side of the railroad to the Neighborhood road. From the Neighborhood road the district would run to the Myron Boice property and thence westerly along the property lines of Myron and Pratt Boice to the Esopus creek. The district would follow the creek upstream to the Kingston city line and thence along the city line to the point of beginning.

There is a map accompanying the petition which defines the exact lines of the proposed district.

Included in plan is provision for a purification plant, water mains, distribution pipes and hydrants as well as the stand pipe and wells.

The plan calls for development of a ground water supply on an area of about four acres to give ample protection to the supply and prevent outside contamination. A stand pipe on the elevation off the By-Pass would provide ample pressure for domestic use and also fire protection.

$450,000 Cost Estimated

The estimated cost of the proposed plant is $450,000 and the petition recites that the "maximum amount to be expended in construction of the water works, and acquiring lands" as the district is now laid out will be that sum.

Following a survey made by McCaffrey, it is estimated that the supply should consist of sufficient wells to supply a guaranteed 400 gallons of water per minute. Water would be delivered to consumers through a meter system and the distribution system should be through six and 10 inch mains.

$17,320 by Taxation

In his survey McCaffrey sets up a plan for financing the construction and amortizing the cost over a 30-year period through a bond issue. This plan sets forth figures which indicate that the annual cost for the first five years would be $25,300, with an estimated revenue from a minimum of 400 users at $20 per year of $8,000, and the balance of $17,320 to be raised by taxation. This amount would vary with the number of consumers and the volume of water consumption. Tentative figures indicate the cost per $1,000 of assessment would be about $14 for Water District Tax.

Would Cut Insurance

A water system with fire hydrants would decrease the insurance rate in the district. It is estimated a home insured for $7,000 would save $7 on fire insurance premium.

Broken down to an individual property level it is estimated that the cost per month to a consumer owning a property assessed at $11,600, would be $2.97 for water consumed and taxes. This would make the average cost per year to that individual slightly over $35 for water consumed, water district tax and fire protection.

Lloyd R. LeFever is attorney for the proposed water district.

It is expected that signatures will be sought quickly so that the proposal may be submitted to the town board for its consideration at an early date if the necessary consent of property owners is secured.

Would Attract Industry

It was pointed out by residents who are interested in establishment of the water district that an ample supply of water in the area would be an incentive to industry to locate in the area and with the coming of additional industry and larger consumption of water the cost would be materially reduced to the individual user.

Highland Man Is Held For Auto Violations

Jake Pinson, 43, of Highland, was arrested on charges of being an unlicensed operator and operating a vehicle with inadequate brakes following a slight accident on Route 44-55 two and a half miles west of Highland about 8:30 p. m. Saturday, state police reported.

Troopers said the arrest followed a sideswiping collision between automobiles driven by Pinson and Richard Altizio, 42, of Highland. No personal injuries were reported.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Edward Brodsky of the town of Rosendale, Pinson pleaded guilty to the charges and was given sentences of $25 fine or 25 days in jail on the license charge and $15 fine or 15 days on the inadequate brake charge, troopers said. He was sent to the Ulster county jail pending payment of the fines.

Picket-Line Siege Off

Pearl River, N. Y., May 19 (AP)—A compromise wage agreement early today brought an end to a picket-line siege at the Lederle Laboratories, where an airlift was used to feed self-imprisoned plant workers and the research animals. Automobiles and employes started moving in and out of the plant through token picket lines only a few minutes after Federal Mediator Thomas G. Daughtery announced the settlement. The strike started Wednesday, and on Thursday the company reported picket line disorders.

Measle Epidemic Is Dropping Off

Practically all common communicable diseases are present in Ulster county but none is in epidemic proportion. The measle epidemic which has been sweeping the area is dropping off and in April there were only seven cases reported in Kingston and 18 in the county.

Chickenpox still continues to be present, 15 cases being reported in the city in April and five in the county. Mumps also are prevalent with 13 cases in the city and five in the county during April.

Polio also made its appearance in the county in April when, according to the Health Department monthly report, there were two cases in the county. One was cared for at home and the second was hospitalized at Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie. There had been one case previously reported since the first of the year.

Also during April the first case of rabies reported in the county in three months came from the town of New Paltz where a raccoon bit a dog. The examination of the animal head disclosed the raccoon was rabid.

During April there were 12 cases of cancer reported, one case of German measles, one partussis, three cases of pneumonia and four cases of strep sore throat including scarlet fever.

Urges Letters to 'Curtain'

Albany, N. Y., May 19 (AP)—Gov. Dewey urges Americans to help "our struggle against false propaganda from the Kremlin" by writing letters to friends and relatives behind the Iron Curtain. Dewey noted in a weekend statement that the Common Council for American Unity had designated May 19 to 25 as "Letters From America Week." "It has been established that these letters, describing day to day life in America, are the most eloquent and effective contradiction of Communist lies and afford folks in the old countries the best possible evidence of freedom that actually exists here."

Senior Citizens Month Observance

Titian was 95 years old when he painted "Christ and the Crown of Thorns," Voltaire achieved his best work after he reached 60, and Bernhardt scored a great stage success at the age of 75.

These facts are pointed out by the Ulster County Children's Committee in observance of Senior Citizens Month, now being observed throughout New York State to focus public attention on the many ways local communities can help their older residents to combat loneliness and feelings of uselessness.

Citing information compiled by the New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Problems of the Aging, the Ulster County Childrens' Committee points out that not only the famous may keep productive, alert and creative in the later years. In any community of the state, the local committee says, there are men and women who, given the proper opportunity, can remain usefully active. For example, a 100-year old man is still active as president of a bank. An 80-year old man has invented an electric clutch likely to be important in defense efforts. A 71-year old woman, "fed up with retirement," has gone back to work as a newspaper reporter. An 83-year old naval architect is still working.

"It is only a myth that old folks cannot produce," the local committee declares, "and are suited only to idle contemplation. The myth needs to be destroyed for it is robbing our elderly of years of happiness and our society of rich achievements."

The local committee therefore urges employers to consider the advantages of experience and stability offered by so many of the aging. It also points out that health and hospital groups, civic clubs, welfare organizations, schools and churches need the sort of reliable help that older people can well provide.

Air Force Chief Has Cancer; Return to Duty Soon Is Doubted

By PETER EDSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force Chief of Staff, has abdominal cancer, NEA Service learned today from what it regards as an unimpeachable source. This was the real cause of his recent operation, which was officially announced as exploratory surgery after X-rays had failed to reveal the cause of a sudden illness.

A major public relations battle was fought in the Pentagon in an effort to keep this simple announcement from being made. The Air Force chief of staff was not allowed to enter Walter Reed Medical Center for fear that word of his real disability would leak out.

The issue involved was largely the old-fashioned belief that cancer, like tuberculosis, should not be mentioned by name. TB was always politely referred to as "complications." Under the same code, cancer was not mentioned at all.

In an effort to hide the truth, General Vandenberg was operated on in the private Doctors' Hospital by Dr. Lloyd Lewis, a war-time Army surgeon now an adviser to the Air medical staff. He is now a specialist in private practice in Washington.

GEN. HOYT S. VANDENBERG: His progress is satisfactory.

While General Vandenberg has shown satisfactory progress following his operation, the initial announcement that he would be away from his desk for only two weeks is now doubted.

KOJE INCIDENT CALLS FOR INQUIRY

The terms agreed to by General Colson in order to obtain the release of General Dodd from Communist prisoners' hands on Koje Island are probably the finest fuel for Red propaganda since the Korean war began.

Colson acknowledged past instances of bloodshed in the camp, promised to do all he could to eliminate further violence, and assured prisoners that in the future they could anticipate humane treatment under international law.

The clear implication running through all these terms is that the prisoner compound at Koje has been a continuous shambles of violence and that up to now the Communist captives have not been getting humane consideration.

It is indeed true that there has been bloodshed during past riots at Koje, but Army guards fired only when all other measures had failed to restore order. Evidence indicates prison camp officials have extended themselves in trying to respect prisoners' rights.

Thus it gives a completely erroneous picture to concede even temporarily that ill treatment was common.

Colson went further. He agreed to end "forcible screening or any rearming of prisoners" at Koje. This suggests some sort of third-degree inquisition has been going on as we have sought to find out if prisoners wished to be repatriated. But there is nothing at all to indicate such is the case.

And what rearming of prisoners can be pointed to? Not a shred of information we have substantiates any admission that we are arming captives and shoving them back into combat.

A man's life was at stake and hence we dealt with the prisoners under duress. But it is at least conceivable that we could have arranged Dodd's release without simply rubber-stamping what apparently was a prepared list of Communist demands deliberately drafted to embarrass us.

Dodd himself cannot be absolved of some blame in the matter, since he obviously took inadequate precautions to protect himself when he approached the compound.

To say the whole performance was a mess is to put it gently. We need, of course, feel no obligation to honor Colson's promises made under duress. But very little we can do will offset the made-to-order propaganda we have given the Reds.

In its tremendous urge to investigate, Congress frequently embarks on some pretty foolish excursions. But here is a situation that cries out for thorough inquiry. How has prison camp administration at Koje fallen into such apparently incompetent hands? Is Koje a rare instance, or is it typical of our handling of camps in the Korean theatre?

No doubt the Army and the Defense Department will do their own investigating. But that is hardly enough. When we start feeding the Red propaganda machine, it becomes a matter of broad general concern.

What do we do when we think? According to James Harvey Robinson, Columbia professor of the last generation, we are merely "finding arguments for going on believing as we already do."

RARE OR WELL DONE

"Don't hurry, dear. Ever since you gave up the old-fashioned breakfasts and changed to these nice pills, you have always had plenty of time to catch the 8:15."

This conversation may be heard in the future if the world realizes the prediction of President Robert F. Chandler, Jr., of the University of New Hampshire. He thinks there is as much nourishment in a pill or pills as in a good steak.

He may be right, but his idea will produce cries of "No! No!" How could any pill compare with a breakfast of grapefruit, pancakes and steaming coffee? Or who can envision a tired husband coming home from work and seeing on the table not a smoking meal but a box of pills?

Housewives might like it. It would save marketing, dishwashing and hours over hot stoves. But they will be definitely in the minority. Lovers of bacon, eggs and waffles also have with them a past experience of the British army which tried to feed its soldiers on concentrated foods. The result was discomfort to the point of illness and a Kipling ballad with a refrain, "What Tommy Atkins wants is bulk in his insides."

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

GASTRONOMIC INTERLUDE

It will, indeed, be pleasant when the primaries, conventions and personal quarrels are over and we know who are the presidential candidates. In the campaign for the general election, there is little hate or vindictiveness. A Republican is expected to be a Republican and a Democrat is expected to be a Democrat and life wends its vituperative way.

In the primaries, it is different. In the first place, the candidates are friends, often of long standing. All the active workers have had personal associations and have often worked together in other years. And the fact is that they will join forces in the general campaign, advocating the candidate they now oppose with even greater vehemence.

The current bitterness will melt on the final day of the convention and those who swore on a thousand Bibles, as the saying goes, that they would never, under any circumstances, vote for one or the other aspirants in their own party, will be loudest in their cheers when the nomination is made unanimous.

There will always be a few diehards, but on the whole, the preliminaries seldom leave unforgettable hatreds.

For editors and columnists and such, this is a tough period, as what they put on paper will be held against them. As regards the Republican party, this is particularly true, for many who are not professional politicians but only commentators on the affairs of the day, often do not care which Republican is nominated, if only someone drives the Truman gang out of the government. They do not wish to engage in vitrolic, vituperative personal partisanship from which they will have to retreat once the nomination is made. Furthermore, none of them hates Bob Taft or Ike Eisenhower, although they may favor one against the other. They recognize that after July 12, they will support the will of the people in convention assembled.

On Mother's Day, I decided that I would drown my partisan sorrows in food. For the evening, I would forget primaries, statistics, Communists, supreme courts, Taft, Eisenhower and Kefauver and devote myself to old-fashioned German cooking. The family settled down in Luchow's to toast Mother who, Anglo-Saxon in her taste, orders incorrectly.

It turned out that Luchow's was celebrating its seventieth birthday and the place was more crowded than usual, but we got a table next to Milton Berle, who was celebrating his mother's 75th Mother's Day or maybe it was a gag.

If there is anybody I would like to see defeated when he runs for President, it is this Uncle Miltie. I don't need any more uncles, but apparently my little daughter does. She adopted him, dated him, made him sign up, and when the clown kissed her on the forehead, she vowed she would not wash her face for a month. Imagine anyone falling for a guy like that when she has her handsome father to look at!

They had, on hand, their first menu, served on opening day in 1882. On that occasion, they charged 75 cents for the whole meal; in 1952, they were charging $5.00 for the same dinner!

As nobody could rise, to say nothing about walk, after devoting ourselves to German cuisine, we sat and talked about those things that one talks about when the children are around, and an old-fashioned string orchestra played old-fashioned music which somehow we heard and enjoyed. A very good time was had by all and there were no arguments.

It was raining when we left and no taxis were on hand. So I swiped John Ringling North's car and I hope he got it back in due course. A circus man ought to be able to handle such emergencies without making a Federal case out of it.

It was all very refreshing and nostalgic and nobody worried about who would be next President as long as it would not be a piano player. A violinist, we could take, but not a pianist.

Maybe, if Mother's Day came every day, we could solve all our great problems by drenching them in good food and drink and the sheer joy of living. I wondered, when my mind slipped for a moment, what would happen if all the candidates sat down to Sauerbraten mit Kartoffel Kloesse and perhaps with a stein of Pilsen, if the prohibitionists will forgive me. Maybe, the candidates would not want to be candidates, anymore.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

CONDITION OF THE LIVER

The liver is the largest organ in the body, weighing four to five pounds. At any one time, because of the various jobs it performs, as much as 25 per cent of the total amount of blood in the body is in the liver, manufacturing bile, storing away sugar, filtering harmful substances from the blood, and supplying its coloring matter. Despite its many jobs, as long as only a portion of the liver is present, this portion, large or small, will continue all the organ's activities. An individual can live indefinitely with only a fraction of the liver present.

Much can be learned about the liver and its working ability by biopsy, which is inserting an instrument and punching or drawing out a portion of the liver. This piece of the liver is examined thoroughly under the microscope and laboratory tests, from which much information is obtained about the structure of the liver and about its working ability are made.

However, because of the large size of the liver, portions of it may have some defect or disease present and other parts may be perfectly healthy. It can thus be seen that when the instrument punches out a portion of the liver, it might remove a portion that is defective or diseased or it may remove a portion that is healthy.

In The Journal of the American Medical Association, Drs. J. Edward Berk and Harry Shay, Temple University, Philadelphia, state that while biopsy is a healpful proceeding, a function test which shows the liver's actual working ability should also be made in investigating the structure and functions or uses of the liver. These physicians record their findings or observations in 40 patients, clinically suspected of having some disorder of the liver, who underwent the liver function test and a biopsy at the same time.

This double test does a complete job, the conclusions reached by Drs. Beck and Shay being:

"Detection and accurate appraisal of actual or suspected liver disease require painstaking history and careful examination, composite liver function tests and liver biopsy. Each of these methods of approach yields information not obtainable by any one alone."

The Big Parade

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — A careful check of previous decisions by individual members of the Supreme Court shows that if they follow their own precedents they will vote with the government in favor of seizing the steel industry.

If, however, they live up to the words of the famed "Mr. Dooley" and "follow the election returns," they will probably find against the government.

At any rate, study of previous opinions and executive acts shows that eight justices, either before or after they got on the bench, have condoned drastic seizure of private property in times of emergency. Here is the score.

Chief Justice Fred Vinson—Was Economic Stabilizer under Roosevelt when the government seized Montgomery Ward mail-order house. Though the United States was then at war, the seizure was rougher than the seizure of the steel mills. Federal troops actually entered the mail-order house and bodily carried out Sewell Avery, head of the company.

Vinson was among the top Roosevelt advisors who recommended seizing the company.

Justice Sherman Minton—Sat on the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals when it passed on the legality of the Montgomery Ward seizure and ruled in favor of the government.

Justice Tom Clark—Wrote a letter as Attorney General placing himself on record that the president has "exceedingly great" power to "deal with emergencies". Clark wrote the letter Feb. 2, 1949, to the Senate Labor Committee, then considering the same problem now at issue in the steel dispute. He maintained no law was necessary to give the President the power to enjoin parties in a strike, since he already had the power.

"I might point out," Justice Clark wrote, "that the inherent power of the President to deal with emergencies that affect the health, safety and welfare of the entire nation is exceedingly great."

Justice Robert Jackson—Passed upon a seizure similar to that of the steel mills when, as attorney general in 1940, Roosevelt ordered the army to take over the North American Aviation Plant in California. Justice Jackson advised the President that his action was legal, though no war had been declared, and no specific law was on the statute books.

During the recent steel arguments, however, Justice Jackson queried Solicitor General Perlman about the question of whether Korea was "war" or a "police action" in a manner which looked as if he had forgotten the North American Aviation case.

Justice Hugo Black—Wrote the majority opinion in one of the most notable emergency seizures in the history of the United States—the removal of Japanese-Americans from the Pacific coast immediately after Pearl Harbor. Though there was no law whatsoever for the removal of American citizens of Japanese descent, they were forced to evacuate their homes, give up their jobs, abandon their property, and were removed bodily to concentration camps.

Later the Supreme Court OK'd Roosevelt's unauthorized action.

Justice William O. Douglas — Who now sits on the steel seizure, concurred in the emergency right of the President to seize the person and property of Japanese-Americans.

Justices Frankfurter and Reid —Also concurred in the seizure of Japanese-Americans, though Justice Jackson dissented.

This makes a total of eight justices now on the bench who have gone on record, either as judges or as members of the executive branch of the government, that the President has the power to seize property in time of emergency.

Judging by some of the questions asked from the bench, however, the court may live up to Mr. Dooley's prediction.

Orientals and Prisoners

Shortly after the war, this column exposed the shameful way American prisoners were treated in Jap prison camps. These conditions are important today only as a contrast with the kid-glove treatment U. S. authorities have given Korean-Chinese prisoners.

Without inferring that we should emulate the brutality of the Oriental, the following condensed account (Merry-Go-Round, May 23, '47) of the treatment handed out to Americans in Jap Prison Camp No. 17, Fukioka District, shows what the Oriental expects in the treatment of prisoners:

"William S. Knight, army enlisted man, was beaten to death because he stole some buns. Corp. James Pavlockus, of the Shanghai 4th Marine Regiment, was slowly starved to death until on the 38th day he died. Pavlockus had refused to help the Japs mine coal, on the ground it was helping them with the war, though his actual punishment was for purchasing some rice from a Jap soldier.

A sworn affidavit by Edgar Van In Wagen of Pomeroy, Ohio, a prisoner in the same camp, stated: "Private Knight was tortured and starved to death. During the beatings he passed out two or three times, and the Japanese guards would revive him and continue the beating. Knight was suspended by ropes tied to his fingers, feet off the ground and left that way for several hours. After fifteen days of this treatment Knight died and I helped bury him."

Koreans made up a part of the Japanese Army and are familiar with these gruesome tactics. So also are the Chinese. Yet they have had the nerve to protest vociferously at the kid-glove treatment given their prisoners. Furthermore, a good part of the Asiatic world believes them.

Dog Aids Voter

Fargo, N. D. (AP)—Thanks to her dog, Gretchen, Mrs. Albert G. Cullum, Jr., voted in a city election. Mrs. Cullum, who recently came from New York city, was asked for identification as she entered the polling place with her two daughters and Gretchen, a Dachshund. Unable to present identification, Mrs. Cullum was about to leave when a precinct worker asked her if the Dachshund was hers. The worker knew where the dog lived and agreed Mrs. Cullum was a resident of the area and able to vote.

Today in Europe

Economic Problems Found Existing in Europe Are Similar to Those in U. S.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Paris—Europe has become a focal point of world news that can affect America profoundly. Here in the next few days a potential Presidential candidate — maybe a future President—takes leave of his post as Supreme Commander of Allied Forces amid a great deal of curiosity as to his program for the United States, both national and international. Here, too, they are puzzled by the Taft candidacy and what the Taft movement really means to Europe.

Here, too, relations between the Soviet Union and the Western countries are coming to a climax. Will France make the same mistake she made after World War I by fostering a deep-seated suspicion of Germany and by insisting on rigid restrictions on the new republic such as gave Hitler and German nationalism a chance to thrive once before?

Will the Left Wing in Britain, showing the first signs of an ideological alliance with the Left Wing in Germany, make difficult even a moderate rearmament of Germany and unwittingly offer the Communists their chance to keep the Western world from becoming unified or from acquiring Germany as a trusted ally?

Will Britain survive her economic crisis, faced as she is by rising demands for higher wages from labor and desperate cries from producers that higher prices will kill the export market so vital to England's economic livelihood?

To explore these and other questions, this correspondent plans to renew acquaintanceship with high officials of the various governments in France, Britain, Germany and Italy, and with friends outside the governments in a position to furnish reliable information.

It is the deep-seated currents in all these countries, each of them preoccupied with their own internal affairs and their party politics, which make the outlook for economic stability so uncertain. For this question of economic balance is the key to whether there will be both the strength to fight another war and the will to resist the common enemy. It opens up, of course, the larger question, so pressing inside the United States nowadays, as to whether American billions are being poured into a rathole and whether Europeans are appreciative of the help they are getting and are making the best use of it.

Most important of all is the picture that Europe presents to Russian eyes and the opportunities it gives, through political infiltration inside Britain, France, Italy and Germany, to muddy the waters and produce such dissension and confusion as to make the conquest of Western Europe no longer a matter of military attack but of gradual defeat by fomenting forces that tend to disintegrate the economy and exploit the weaknesses of the governments of the free countries.

Americans who have their thoughts fixed on the domestic situation inside the United States, with the steel controversy and increasing demands of labor in other industries, amid a confusion of policies on price control, will find it worth while to take a look at what is happening in other free countries as they, too, let emotion and inordinate demands for special privilege shape national policy.

There are significant parallels in Europe. Human nature isn't any different in these countries than in America, nor is the struggle for party advantage and political power unfamiliar. What is happening to the democracies in their irresponsible pursuit, each in its own way, of programs and policies that make votes locally, irrespective of what it does to undermine both the military and economic strength of the Western alliance, is of tremendous importance because it means the difference between freedom and the eventual loss of freedom.

This can come either through the growth of more state control and more and more restriction on individual liberty or through the arrival of conditions that will give the Communists an opportune moment to attack. Long-range policy is subordinated nowadays to immediate expediencies. While the diplomats strive valiantly for paper agreements, it is the economy behind the governments which presents the real front that is vulnerable.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

We people of the United States have ceased to be masters of our government and have become subjects like the British people who unconsciously lost their vaunted authority and became mere counters in a system of government by party bosses. They are servants, serfs, to their House of Commons, run by a handful of party men. The individual M. P.'s are nonentities. The British people have no right to their earnings, savings or property, however acquired, that the House of Commons is bound to respect. (The House of Lords is meaningless so their Parliment consists entirely of the aimless, frivolous, twittering House of Commons.) This is a farcical body controlled by the managing committees of the principal parties. But we Americans have no right to any portion of our earnings that Congress is obliged to respect, absolutely no right whatever. We work for Congress and retain ourselves only as much as Congress lets us. That is not representative government. It is slavery to a parliment.

We are mere earners for our Congress and the bureaucracies of the federal, state, county and local governments. These predatory groups cooperate together against us. The federal government robs us of our earnings but dribbles some of the money back to party agents in the state capitals to be spent on various "social services" to keep ignorant and dependant people docile. Hundreds of thousands of lazy, sedentary, useless clerks and catch-polls get life jobs in this system.

Congress and our bureaucracies treat us with contempt. Congress enacts more and more devouring revenue acts and gives the bureaucrats of the corrupt Internal Revenue the power to write "regulations" having the force of law. These knaves impose actual labors on us that many of us simply cannot perform. In a recent innovation, they decided that we must make certain returns every 30 days instead of every 3 months. I will continue to make returns every three months. The accompanying imperative tells me not to punch any metal staples into the official form. I am ordered also not to fold it. I take it that if I do staple and fold the return some awful punishment will befall me. I will load the next return with a pound of staples and fold it many times. I want to see what happens.

Not only are the taxes so great that incentive to work and incentive to invest have almost vanished, but these leeches have the gall to think of insulting little tricks like these to rub it in. I know a man whose wife for the 30 years of their marriage has done all their clerical work and book-keeping. Now her right hand is crippled by an accident and these chores are a painful drudgery. Her husband knows nothing about such business and he is too busy earning money to pay his taxes to spend time puttering with such unnecessary details as monthly returns.

But this band of scoundrels in Congress impudently load such burdens of work and debt on us and nobody sees any challenge to freedom. The French people are far more independent. They ignore the income tax and treat their Parliament as a rabble of chattering apes. If the French treasury ever tried to send a workman or small merchant to prison for failing to fill out forms in a certain way or refusing to pay his income tax mobs would throw rocks through the windows and burn the files in the street. The French have more guts. We pay the taxes that they do not pay and our money is sent to France to be squandered on slovenly construction work for the rear communications of the allied army extending all the way back to the French seaports. We should be paid for these permanent buildings, roads, airports and the like, but we can't even find a French bureaucrat competent to sign a contract. So we go ahead with the construction at our expense and our Internal Revenue will lock us up in Leavenworth if we fail to get the money up on the dot every month with no staples or creases in the return.

We need a revolution against our elected Congress. Congress laid down the proposition that they and Harry S. Truman are too hard pressed for time to "account" for their tax-exempt expense allowances which are, by common consent, plain graft, whereas a citizeness with a crippled hand is a slave to be put to work innumerable hours by their arrogant decree. How so? We provide them with unlimited cleri-

KOJE INCIDENT CALLS FOR INQUIRY

The terms agreed to by General Colson in order to obtain the release of General Dodd from Communist prisoners' hands on Koje Island are probably the finest fuel for Red propaganda since the Korean war began.

Colson acknowledged past instances of bloodshed in the camp, promised to do all he could to eliminate further violence, and assured prisoners that in the future they could anticipate humane treatment under international law.

The clear implication running through all these terms is that the prisoner compound at Koje has been a continuous shambles of violence and that up to now the Communist captives have not been getting humane consideration.

It is indeed true that there has been bloodshed during past riots at Koje, but Army guards fired only when all other measures had failed to restore order. Evidence indicates prison camp officials have extended themselves in trying to respect prisoners' rights.

Thus it gives a completely erroneous picture to concede even temporarily that ill treatment was common.

Colson went further. He agreed to end "forcible screening or any rearming of prisoners" at Koje. This suggests some sort of third-degree inquisition has been going on as we have sought to find out if prisoners wished to be repatriated. But there is nothing at all to indicate such is the case.

And what rearming of prisoners can be pointed to? Not a shred of information we have substantiates any admission that we are arming captives and shoving them back into combat.

A man's life was at stake and hence we dealt with the prisoners under duress. But it is at least conceivable that we could have arranged Dodd's release without simply rubber-stamping what apparently was a prepared list of Communist demands deliberately drafted to embarrass us.

Dodd himself cannot be absolved of some blame in the matter, since he obviously took inadequate precautions to protect himself when he approached the compound.

To say the whole performance was a mess is to put it gently. We need, of course, feel no obligation to honor Colson's promises made under duress. But very little we can do will offset the made-to-order propaganda we have given the Reds.

In its tremendous urge to investigate, Congress frequently embarks on some pretty foolish excursions. But here is a situation that cries out for thorough inquiry. How has prison camp administration at Koje fallen into such apparently incompetent hands? Is Koje a rare instance, or is it typical of our handling of camps in the Korean theatre?

No doubt the Army and the Defense Department will do their own investigating. But that is hardly enough. When we start feeding the Red propaganda machine, it becomes a matter of broad general concern.

What do we do when we think? According to James Harvey Robinson, Columbia professor of the last generation, we are merely "finding arguments for going on believing as we already do."

RARE OR WELL DONE

"Don't hurry, dear. Ever since you gave up the old-fashioned breakfasts and changed to these nice pills, you have always had plenty of time to catch the 8:15."

This conversation may be heard in the future if the world realizes the prediction of President Robert F. Chandler, Jr., of the University of New Hampshire. He thinks there is as much nourishment in a pill or pills as in a good steak.

He may be right, but his idea will produce cries of "No! No!" How could any pill compare with a breakfast of grapefruit, pancakes and steaming coffee? Or who can envision a tired husband coming home from work and seeing on the table not a smoking meal but a box of pills?

Housewives might like it. It would save marketing, dishwashing and hours over hot stoves. But they will be definitely in the minority. Lovers of bacon, eggs and waffles also have with them a past experience of the British army which tried to feed its soldiers on concentrated foods. The result was discomfort to the point of illness and a Kipling ballad with a refrain, "What Tommy Atkins wants is bulk in his insides."

GASTRONOMIC INTERLUDE

It will, indeed, be pleasant when the primaries, conventions and personal quarrels are over and we know who are the presidential candidates. In the campaign for the general election, there is little hate or vindictiveness. A Republican is expected to be a Republican and a Democrat is expected to be a Democrat and life wends its vituperative way.

In the primaries, it is different. In the first place, the candidates are friends, often of long standing. All the active workers have had personal associations and have often worked together in other years. And the fact is that they will join forces in the general campaign, advocating the candidate they now oppose with even greater vehemence.

The current bitterness will melt on the final day of the convention and those who swore on a thousand Bibles, as the saying goes, that they would never, under any circumstances, vote for one or the other aspirants in their own party, will be loudest in their cheers when the nomination is made unanimous.

There will always be a few diehards, but on the whole, the preliminaries seldom leave unforgettable hatreds.

For editors and columnists and such, this is a tough period, as what they put on paper will be held against them. As regards the Republican party, this is particularly true, for many who are not professional politicians but only commentators on the affairs of the day, often do not care which Republican is nominated, if only someone drives the Truman gang out of the government. Vinson was among the top Roosevelt advisors who recommended seizing the company.

Justice Sherman Minton—Sat on the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals when it passed on the legality of the Montgomery Ward seizure and ruled in favor of the government.

Justice Tom Clark—Wrote a letter as Attorney General placing himself on record that the president has "exceedingly great" power to "deal with emergencies". Clark wrote the letter Feb. 2, 1949, to the Senate Labor Committee, then considering the same problem now at issue in the steel dispute. He maintained no law was necessary to give the President the power to enjoin parties in a strike, since he already had the power.

"I might point out," Justice Clark wrote, "that the inherent power of the President to deal with emergencies that affect the health, safety and welfare of the entire nation is exceedingly great."

Justice Robert Jackson—Passed upon a seizure similar to that of the steel mills when, as attorney general in 1940, Roosevelt ordered the army to take over the North American Aviation Plant in California. Justice Jackson advised the President that his action was legal, though no war had been declared, and no specific law was on the statute books.

During the recent steel arguments, however, Justice Jackson queried Solicitor General Perlman about the question of whether Korea was "war" or a "police action" in a manner which looked as if he had forgotten the North American Aviation case.

Justice Hugo Black—Wrote the majority opinion in one of the most notable emergency seizures in the history of the United States—the removal of Japanese-Americans from the Pacific coast immediately after Pearl Harbor. Though there was no law whatsoever for the removal of American citizens of Japanese descent, they were forced to evacuate their homes, give up their jobs, abandon their property, and were removed bodily to concentration camps.

Later the Supreme Court OK'd Roosevelt's unauthorized action.

Justice William O. Douglas — Who now sits on the steel seizure, concurred in the emergency right of the President to seize the person and property of Japanese-Americans.

Justices Frankfurter and Reid —Also concurred in the seizure of Japanese-Americans, though Justice Jackson dissented.

This makes a total of eight justices now on the bench who have gone on record, either as judges or as members of the executive branch of the government, that the President has the power to seize property in time of emergency.

Judging by some of the questions asked from the bench, however, the court may live up to Mr. Dooley's prediction.

Orientals and Prisoners

Shortly after the war, this column exposed the shameful way American prisoners were treated in Jap prison camps. These conditions are important today only as a contrast with the kid-glove treatment U. S. authorities have given Korean-Chinese prisoners.

Without inferring that we should emulate the brutality of the Oriental, the following condensed account (Merry-Go-Round, May 23, '47) of the treatment handed out to Americans in Jap Prison Camp No. 17, Fukioka District, shows what the Oriental expects in the treatment of prisoners:

"William S. Knight, army enlisted man, was beaten to death because he stole some buns. Corp. James Pavlockus, of the Shanghai 4th Marine Regiment, was slowly starved to death until on the 38th day he died. Pavlockus had refused to help the Japs mine coal, on the ground it was helping them with the war, though his actual punishment was for purchasing some rice from a Jap soldier.

A sworn affidavit by Edgar Van In Wagen of Pomeroy, Ohio, a prisoner in the same camp, stated: "Private Knight was tortured and starved to death. During the beatings he passed out two or three times, and the Japanese guards would revive him and continue the beating. Knight was suspended by ropes tied to his fingers, feet off the ground and left that way for several hours. After fifteen days of this treatment Knight died and I helped bury him."

Koreans made up a part of the Japanese Army and are familiar with these gruesome tactics. So also are the Chinese. Yet they have had the nerve to protest vociferously at the kid-glove treatment given their prisoners. Furthermore, a good part of the Asiatic world believes them.

Dog Aids Voter

Fargo, N. D. (AP)—Thanks to her dog, Gretchen, Mrs. Albert G. Cullum, Jr., voted in a city election. Mrs. Cullum, who recently came from New York city, was asked for identification as she entered the polling place with her two daughters and Gretchen, a Dachshund. Unable to present identification, Mrs. Cullum was about to leave when a precinct worker asked her if the Dachshund was hers. The worker knew where the dog lived and agreed Mrs. Cullum was a resident of the area and able to vote.

San Pedro, Calif. (AP)—For John Caldwell, currently preparing the 36-foot ketch, Tropic Seas, for a voyage to Australia, this will be nothing new. Today in Europe

Economic Problems Found Existing in Europe Are Similar to Those in U. S.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Paris—Europe has become a focal point of world news that can affect America profoundly. Here in the next few days a potential Presidential candidate — maybe a future President—takes leave of his post as Supreme Commander of Allied Forces amid a great deal of curiosity as to his program for the United States, both national and international. Here, too, they are puzzled by the Taft candidacy and what the Taft movement really means to Europe.

Here, too, relations between the Soviet Union and the Western countries are coming to a climax. Will France make the same mistake she made after World War I by fostering a deep-seated suspicion of Germany and by insisting on rigid restrictions on the new republic such as gave Hitler and German nationalism a chance to thrive once before?

Will the Left Wing in Britain, showing the first signs of an ideological alliance with the Left Wing in Germany, make difficult even a moderate rearmament of Germany and unwittingly offer the Communists their chance to keep the Western world from becoming unified or from acquiring Germany as a trusted ally?

Will Britain survive her economic crisis, faced as she is by rising demands for higher wages from labor and desperate cries from producers that higher prices will kill the export market so vital to England's economic livelihood?

To explore these and other questions, this correspondent plans to renew acquaintanceship with high officials of the various governments in France, Britain, Germany and Italy, and with friends outside the governments in a position to furnish reliable information.

It is the deep-seated currents in all these countries, each of them preoccupied with their own internal affairs and their party politics, which make the outlook for economic stability so uncertain. For this question of economic balance is the key to whether there will be both the strength to fight another war and the will to resist the common enemy. It opens up, of course, the larger question, so pressing inside the United States nowadays, as to whether American billions are being poured into a rathole and whether Europeans are appreciative of the help they are getting and are making the best use of it.

Most important of all is the picture that Europe presents to Russian eyes and the opportunities it gives, through political infiltration inside Britain, France, Italy and Germany, to muddy the waters and produce such dissension and confusion as to make the conquest of Western Europe no longer a matter of military attack but of gradual defeat by fomenting forces that tend to disintegrate the economy and exploit the weaknesses of the governments of the free countries.

Americans who have their thoughts fixed on the domestic situation inside the United States, with the steel controversy and increasing demands of labor in other industries, amid a confusion of policies on price control, will find it worth while to take a look at what is happening in other free countries as they, too, let emotion and inordinate demands for special privilege shape national policy.

There are significant parallels in Europe. Human nature isn't any different in these countries than in America, nor is the struggle for party advantage and political power unfamiliar. What is happening to the democracies in their irresponsible pursuit, each in its own way, of programs and policies that make votes locally, irrespective of what it does to undermine both the military and economic strength of the Western alliance, is of tremendous importance because it means the difference between freedom and the eventual loss of freedom.

This can come either through the growth of more state control and more and more restriction on individual liberty or through the arrival of conditions that will give the Communists an opportune moment to attack. Long-range policy is subordinated nowadays to immediate expediencies. While the diplomats strive valiantly for paper agreements, it is the economy behind the governments which presents the real front that is vulnerable.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

We people of the United States have ceased to be masters of our government and have become subjects like the British people who unconsciously lost their vaunted authority and became mere counters in a system of government by party bosses. They are servants, serfs, to their House of Commons, run by a handful of party men. The individual M. P.'s are nonentities. The British people have no right to their earnings, savings or property, however acquired, that the House of Commons is bound to respect. (The House of Lords is meaningless so their Parliment consists entirely of the aimless, frivolous, twittering House of Commons.) This is a farcical body controlled by the managing committees of the principal parties. But we Americans have no right to any portion of our earnings that Congress is obliged to respect, absolutely no right whatever. We work for Congress and retain ourselves only as much as Congress lets us. That is not representative government. It is slavery to a parliment.

We are mere earners for our Congress and the bureaucracies of the federal, state, county and local governments. These predatory groups cooperate together against us. The federal government robs us of our earnings but dribbles some of the money back to party agents in the state capitals to be spent on various "social services" to keep ignorant and dependant people docile. Hundreds of thousands of lazy, sedentary, useless clerks and catch-polls get life jobs in this system.

Congress and our bureaucracies treat us with contempt. Congress enacts more and more devouring revenue acts and gives the bureaucrats of the corrupt Internal Revenue the power to write "regulations" having the force of law. These knaves impose actual labors on us that many of us simply cannot perform. In a recent innovation, they decided that we must make certain returns every 30 days instead of every 3 months. I will continue to make returns every three months. The accompanying imperative tells me not to punch any metal staples into the official form. I am ordered also not to fold it. I take it that if I do staple and fold the return some awful punishment will befall me. I will load the next return with a pound of staples and fold it many times. I want to see what happens.

Not only are the taxes so great that incentive to work and incentive to invest have almost vanished, but these leeches have the gall to think of insulting little tricks like these to rub it in. I know a man whose wife for the 30 years of their marriage has done all their clerical work and book-keeping. Now her right hand is crippled by an accident and these chores are a painful drudgery. Her husband knows nothing about such business and he is too busy earning money to pay his taxes to spend time puttering with such unnecessary details as monthly returns.

But this band of scoundrels in Congress impudently load such burdens of work and debt on us and nobody sees any challenge to freedom. The French people are far more independent. They ignore the income tax and treat their Parliament as a rabble of chattering apes. If the French treasury ever tried to send a workman or small merchant to prison for failing to fill out forms in a certain way or refusing to pay his income tax mobs would throw rocks through the windows and burn the files in the street. The French have more guts. We pay the taxes that they do not pay and our money is sent to France to be squandered on slovenly construction work for the rear communications of the allied army extending all the way back to the French seaports. We should be paid for these permanent buildings, roads, airports and the like, but we can't even find a French bureaucrat competent to sign a contract. So we go ahead with the construction at our expense and our Internal Revenue will lock us up in Leavenworth if we fail to get the money up on the dot every month with no staples or creases in the return.

We need a revolution against our elected Congress. Congress laid down the proposition that they and Harry S. Truman are too hard pressed for time to "account" for their tax-exempt expense allowances which are, by common consent, plain graft, whereas a citizeness with a crippled hand is a slave to be put to work innumerable hours by their arrogant decree. How so? We provide them with unlimited cleri-

Although a team of four contest is generally conceded to be the surest test of skill, very few bridge clubs organize team competitions. An outstanding exception, however, is the paradise Bridge Studio, of New York city, where team games are held every Sunday night.

In the hand shown today an unusual defensive play was made by Milton Moss, playing with Sidney Mandell, in a team game at the Paradise Club.

Messrs. Moss and Mandell, both members of the 1952 Vanderbilt Cup Championship team, won the open pair game in last year's Decoration Day Tournament and were practicing for this year's tournament, scheduled for May 30 in New York.

West opened the seven of diamonds, dummy played low and Mr. Moss, holding the East cards, won with the king. The key play had to be made at this point.

Just for the fun of it, look at the hands and decide on the best defensive play. Then read on about what Mr. Moss did.

Mr. Moss decided that his partner had not led a singleton diamond. He chose instead to try for two heart tricks. He therefore returned his low spade.

Declarer won with the king of spades, and was then unable to make the contract. He could not safely take a discard on dummy's ace of diamonds without drawing another round of trumps.

If he drew another round of trumps, however, East could immediately cash the ace of hearts and lead a second heart to his partner's queen.

South made a neat try by leading a club to the ace and then continuing with the king of clubs. Mr. Moss avoided the trap by refusing to ruff the second club. (Had he ruffed, dummy's second trump could have been used to ruff a heart.) Now South had to lose a trump and two hearts no matter how he squirmed.

Proceeds of the dinner, attended by 1,000 persons, will be used for work among under-privileged children by the settlement in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn.

Blames Inflation On Management In Washington

Harriman, N. Y., May 19 (AP)—Extravagant public spending since 1933 and unwise financing of World War 2 are the causes of present inflationary pressures in the United States, says former Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas.

He adds that "fiscal mismanagement" at Washington has made the situation much worse today than it need have been.

Douglas made these remarks last night to newsmen after he adressed the opening session of the second American Assembly meeting here to discuss various aspects of inflation.

The Assembly, a non-partisan organization, meets at Arden House on the Harriman campus of Columbia University. Here for the inflation discussions are 85 leaders of business, labor, agriculture, government and the professions.

As chairman of the assembly's national policy board, Douglas was the principal speaker last night at a brief open meeting.

Starting today, the participants will meet in private until Thursday. A final opening meeting then will be held to present their conclusions.

In his prepared text, Douglas, a Democrat, referred to governmental fiscal mismanagement only in general terms. But in answer to newsmen's questions he later said his remarks applied to the U. S. today.

Loose public fiscal policy, the former U. S. envoy to Great Britain said in his address, has caused the type of inflation which has brought "the most permanent damage to society."

The American Assembly was established in 1950 by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, as president of Columbia, for the discussion of vital national issues by leading Americans. Mutual Security Director W. Averell Harriman gave Arden House to Columbia for the Assembly.

Miss Aitken, who has been deputy clerk, started work in the county office 26 years ago.

The twin villages were well represented at the William Quick estate auction sale of household effects and general store stock Saturday. Some of our folks were on hand 10 a. m. and were still there when the successful sale wound up about dark. The crowd was large despite the fact that another sale was in progress Saturday at neighboring Lyonsville. Both auctions were advertised in The Freeman.

Delancey N. Boice who died Saturday in New York was brought up in the old village of West Shokan, a son of Ulysses and Cora (Matthews) Boice. He was a nephew of Delancey N. Matthews, general storekeeper.

Some dog owners still let their faithful friends run loose though well knowing that the majority of canines who gad around, get hit by a car some time or other. Might flatten the family wallet too, as in a case of a town of Denver (Del. Co.) man whose beagle hound was caught pursuing deer. The game protector who picked up the hound also shot its companion as the latter was in the act of killing a deer near Roxbury. The roving dog's master got off easy in a civil compromise—only $17.50, this time.

An attack of the chicken-pox might be news now that the epidemic which swept through three mountain counties during the winter has about ended. Little Lana DuBois of Ashokan had it last week.

She's Charged With Stabbing Husband

New York, May 19 (AP)—A 42-year-old mother, once sent to jail for burning her 8-year-old son's hand on a gas stove, was back behind bars today charged with stabbing her husband.

The woman, Mrs. Anna Mary Vetter, 42, was accused of plunging a paring knife with a four-inch blade into her husband's chest a number of times in an argument Saturday night. Detectives said the incident followed a drinking bout and an argument.

Her husband, Philip, 45, was taken to Knickerbocker Hospital in critical condition.

Mrs. Vetter showed no emotion yesterday when Magistrate Vernon C. Riddick in felony court ordered her held without bail for a hearing on a felonious assault charge.

Detectives told the magistrate she was the Mrs. Geraldine Vetter who was sentenced to three years in jail in May, 1949, for holding the hand of her son, Philip Jr., now 11, against a gas burner as punishment for smoking and pilfering from her purse.

No reason was given for the difference in first names.

She was paroled in November, 1949, just about a year after the son's hand was burned on Thanksgiving Day 1948.

The boy, Philip, is now a patient at Bellevue Hospital undergoing skin grafting and surgery in an attempt to restore use of the hand.

First commercial use of rayon was in bristles for toothbrushes and hairbrushes.

Although a team of four contest is generally conceded to be the surest test of skill, very few bridge clubs organize team competitions. An outstanding exception, however, is the paradise Bridge Studio, of New York city, where team games are held every Sunday night.

In the hand shown today an unusual defensive play was made by Milton Moss, playing with Sidney Mandell, in a team game at the Paradise Club.

Messrs. Moss and Mandell, both members of the 1952 Vanderbilt Cup Championship team, won the open pair game in last year's Decoration Day Tournament and were practicing for this year's tournament, scheduled for May 30 in New York.

West opened the seven of diamonds, dummy played low and Mr. Moss, holding the East cards, won with the king. The key play had to be made at this point.

Just for the fun of it, look at the hands and decide on the best defensive play. Then read on about what Mr. Moss did.

Mr. Moss decided that his partner had not led a singleton diamond. He chose instead to try for two heart tricks. He therefore returned his low spade.

Declarer won with the king of spades, and was then unable to make the contract. He could not safely take a discard on dummy's ace of diamonds without drawing another round of trumps.

If he drew another round of trumps, however, East could immediately cash the ace of hearts and lead a second heart to his partner's queen.

South made a neat try by leading a club to the ace and then continuing with the king of clubs. Mr. Moss avoided the trap by refusing to ruff the second club. (Had he ruffed, dummy's second trump could have been used to ruff a heart.) Now South had to lose a trump and two hearts no matter how he squirmed.

Proceeds of the dinner, attended by 1,000 persons, will be used for work among under-privileged children by the settlement in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn.

Blames Inflation On Management In Washington

Harriman, N. Y., May 19 (AP)—Extravagant public spending since 1933 and unwise financing of World War 2 are the causes of present inflationary pressures in the United States, says former Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas.

He adds that "fiscal mismanagement" at Washington has made the situation much worse today than it need have been.

Douglas made these remarks last night to newsmen after he adressed the opening session of the second American Assembly meeting here to discuss various aspects of inflation.

The Assembly, a non-partisan organization, meets at Arden House on the Harriman campus of Columbia University. Here for the inflation discussions are 85 leaders of business, labor, agriculture, government and the professions.

As chairman of the assembly's national policy board, Douglas was the principal speaker last night at a brief open meeting.

Starting today, the participants will meet in private until Thursday. A final opening meeting then will be held to present their conclusions.

In his prepared text, Douglas, a Democrat, referred to governmental fiscal mismanagement only in general terms. But in answer to newsmen's questions he later said his remarks applied to the U. S. today.

Loose public fiscal policy, the former U. S. envoy to Great Britain said in his address, has caused the type of inflation which has brought "the most permanent damage to society."

The American Assembly was established in 1950 by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, as president of Columbia, for the discussion of vital national issues by leading Americans. Mutual Security Director W. Averell Harriman gave Arden House to Columbia for the Assembly.

Harrison M. DeKay who died recently at his home in Delhi had served as county clerk of Delaware county 20 years without opposition as a result of his fine record in the office. Equally notable for long and faithful public service is DeKay's successor, Jessie B. Aitken who has been appointed county clerk by Gov. Dewey. Miss Aitken, who has been deputy clerk, started work in the county office 26 years ago.

The twin villages were well represented at the William Quick estate auction sale of household effects and general store stock Saturday. Some of our folks were on hand 10 a. m. and were still there when the successful sale wound up about dark. The crowd was large despite the fact that another sale was in progress Saturday at neighboring Lyonsville. Both auctions were advertised in The Freeman.

Delancey N. Boice who died Saturday in New York was brought up in the old village of West Shokan, a son of Ulysses and Cora (Matthews) Boice. He was a nephew of Delancey N. Matthews, general storekeeper.

Some dog owners still let their faithful friends run loose though well knowing that the majority of canines who gad around, get hit by a car some time or other. Might flatten the family wallet too, as in a case of a town of Denver (Del. Co.) man whose beagle hound was caught pursuing deer. The game protector who picked up the hound also shot its companion as the latter was in the act of killing a deer near Roxbury. The roving dog's master got off easy in a civil compromise—only $17.50, this time.

An attack of the chicken-pox might be news now that the epidemic which swept through three mountain counties during the winter has about ended. Little Lana DuBois of Ashokan had it last week.

Man Is Found Dead

Stony Point, N. Y., May 19 (AP)—Discovery of the nude body of an unidentified man, with a fractured skull, presented police with a mystery today. The body was found last night at the edge of a swamp near Route 9W, the main New York-Albany highway. The man, in his middle 40's and with graying hair, apparently had been dead at least three months.

She's Charged With Stabbing Husband

New York, May 19 (AP)—A 42-year-old mother, once sent to jail for burning her 8-year-old son's hand on a gas stove, was back behind bars today charged with stabbing her husband.

The woman, Mrs. Anna Mary Vetter, 42, was accused of plunging a paring knife with a four-inch blade into her husband's chest a number of times in an argument Saturday night. Detectives said the incident followed a drinking bout and an argument.

Her husband, Philip, 45, was taken to Knickerbocker Hospital in critical condition.

Mrs. Vetter showed no emotion yesterday when Magistrate Vernon C. Riddick in felony court ordered her held without bail for a hearing on a felonious assault charge.

Detectives told the magistrate she was the Mrs. Geraldine Vetter who was sentenced to three years in jail in May, 1949, for holding the hand of her son, Philip Jr., now 11, against a gas burner as punishment for smoking and pilfering from her purse.

No reason was given for the difference in first names.

She was paroled in November, 1949, just about a year after the son's hand was burned on Thanksgiving Day 1948.

The boy, Philip, is now a patient at Bellevue Hospital undergoing skin grafting and surgery in an attempt to restore use of the hand.

First commercial use of rayon was in bristles for toothbrushes and hairbrushes.

George Segelken was appointed chairman of a committee to plan a Monte Carlo party for the firemen and their wives to take place in June. Plans also were made for a dance to be held in the hall the first week of July. Peter Hoffman, Jr., was chosen chairman of the committee in charge.

Leonard Albert accepted the chairmanship of a committee to stage a firemen's minstrel show early in the fall.

Hollis E. Harvey, president of the company, presented a gold badge to Frank Minnikine, former chief engineer, for services rendered, on behalf of the entire company.

Plans were made to attend the Ulster County Firemen's Association convention at Saugerties in July, and to send one truck and men to enter the parade July 26.

Following the business session, refreshments were served and musical entertainment provided by the company musicians. Approximately 30 members were in attendance.

The financial secretary, George Segelken has reminded all members that in order to retain the status of an active fireman, all dues must be paid by the June meeting.

Columning a Cinch

By FRANK TRIPP

Every now and then I get a letter from a friendly editor of doubtful wisdom who wants me to write a daily column instead of one a week. It's the one sign I see of decadence of the press. Otherwise it must be that newspapers are getting better and better, bcause more and more folks are reading them.

One time when I had the leisure, I wrote a column a day for two weeks to see how I'd like it; then gave them their just deserts. I tossed half in the wastebasket, dished the other half out one a week and went fishing.

This bombast is not to say that there aren't guys who write a column every day. Nor is it saying that I never did. In my time I often ground out some 4,000 words a day; which is equal to about seven of the effusions you're now reading; and no doubt they were a lot more interesting.

Anyway the boss kept me on the pay roll.

Then what's wrong? If they'd pay for it, why not easily produce 500 to 600 words a day, seeing that many can be written by any ham in about half an hour. Pretty slick and easy way to make a living says you.

WELL, HERE'S what's wrong with it. As much as you may doubt the assertion, there has to be an idea in existence before the cutest scribbler can write 500 words; unless he's to reiterate in perpetuity that practice phrase about all good men coming to the aid of their party.

That phrase was invented back when good men didn't tell off their party. It might sometimes be more interesting than what gets writ, but there isn't much of a market for it—unless you name the men and can prove that they are aiding their party, which is seldom.

The idea is the thing. Anybody can learn to write, to compose; some better than others of course, but anyone who sets his mind to it can learn to put his thoughts on paper. Ah, but of what shall he write?

That's the rub. And it brings us to the reason that lazy old-timers either shy away from the daily stint, or get by with old yarns dished out to a new generation.

ABOUT FIVE YEARS ago a very clever and idea-saturated individual bought himself a reputed 50 grand a year income by first buying space in which to exploit his wares.

Ere long the syndicates were after him. A big one signed him up and the newcomer went to town with a daily column that was one of the best whole cloth offerings ever to appear in newspapers. They were swell.

What I call a "whole cloth" column is one supposed to be on the human interest side. It is one that doesn't lean on the day's news, the deeds, misdeeds and activities of celebrities and politics for its existence. The current events commentary column is a lead pipe cinch ideawise. Digging an idea out of the past or out of the air and developing it from whole cloth is something else.

Well that super-duper guy went like a house afire, with a whole cloth column daily for about a year. Then he clipped it to three a week. After another 10 months his retirement as a columnist was announced; on account of the press of other interests and on advice of his doctor. He was a big shot, but 50 grand a year, coming in sure-fire, no foolin', ain't hay even to big shots.

That gay though brief literary career could be going yet. Grinding out one a day used up the easy picking store of ideas that seemed to be inexhaustible and the time came when the prolific gent was earning his dough the hard way—hunting for things to write about.

THAT IS the nubbin of the whole cloth column. The idea is the only thing that worries the saps who write them. It may take a week to get an idea, but he should be reading meters who can't write it while his wife gets ready for the movies.

Now you know how to become a columnist, and I'll be expecting to read your stuff any day soon. But if it's to be a whole cloth column and if you want to stay in there and pitch, save your arm. And you may have enough left on the ball by World Series time to get in on the money.

That's why old roosters can't be coaxed into a spasm a day. They've seen too many of 'em come and go. I like the philosophy of our pilot, Russ Holderman, who says he doesn't want to be the most famous flier in the world—just the oldest.

By the way, did it occur to you that the only reason you're reading this hokum is that I didn't have an idea in the world to write about?

Aphid Control Requires Constant Vigil

By HENRY PREE
Written for NEA Service

Gardening would be much more fun if we did not have to combat those tiny sucking insects called aphids. In many gardens they are pest number one and once they put a good curl in the leaves or get down into the heads of flowers they are hard to control.

They are particularly fond of roses, deforming both new flower buds and leaf growth. The life history of aphids is so complicated that even the experts are stumped, but suffice to say — aphids are inevitable and must be fought continually.

Timing is important in aphid control, not only to kill the first few aphids before they can produce more but also to avoid killing their natural enemies such as ladybird beetles and aphid lions. There is no set time to spray for aphids. Just watch for them and spray when you see them.

Aphid control is not difficult if you do not let them get ahead of you. The old reliable Black Leaf 40 spray is always effective. However, the recently introduced lindane is said to give better results. Bear in mind that the insects must be hit with the chemical to kill them.

Many dahlia fanciers believe that the better dahlias are grown from cuttings—an easy method to try. The tubers are planted in flats of sandy soil and barely covered. When the new shoots have grown a few inches above the ground cut off a few of them just below a joint.

Place these cuttings in a mixture of sand and peat moss or vermiculite. Keep the rooting mixture moist. Shade the cuttings at first but when they start to grow give them all the sunlight possible.

Spring planting of border perennials in heavy clay soils is preferred over autumn planting as the plants avoid the hazard of rotting in wet soil and heaving due to alternate freezing and thawing during the winter.

The old gardener suggests consideration of the following and urges planting in a well-drained, deeply dug, enriched soil.

HEMEROCALLIS (day lily). The day lily is a fine addition to any garden. It is remarkable not only for the length and color range of its bloom, but for its resistance to cold and drought.

SHASTY DAISY Marconi. This is the largest of the double Shasta daisies. The pure white, four-inch flowers have fringed petals. It is near the top of the list for long bloom. Bushy, sometimes it grows more than three feet high.

ASTER FRIKARTII. Just a mention here, because this lavender-blue flower aster is far from a stranger. But not to include it would be a serious omission.

CAMPANULA Poscharskyanna. Bell Flower. Long blooming and easy to grow, this perennial appears on almost every preferred list. From spreading mats of heart-shaped foliage, it sends out sprays of starry blue flowers during summer and fall. Cut it back after first bloom.

CERASTOSTIGMA plumbaginoides. Plumbago Larpentiae. This eight to 10-inch perennial has deep blue flowers in late summer and fall. The bronzy green leaves turn rich red in fall. Excellent edger, ground cover, in sun or light shade.

Course Planned For Nurses' Aides

The Red Cross chairman of volunteer groups, Mrs. William H. Merrill, today announced that a class of volunteer nurses' aides will start at the Kingston Hospitol May 27. The course will be taught by Mrs. Pauline Gantner, RN.

The specific training for the volunteer nurses' aide service is an 80-hour course in hospital skills and techniques. The entire course will be completed in five and half weeks. Classes will be held Tuesday through Friday from 9 a. m. until 12 noon.

The duties of nurses' aides are to assist register nurses by performing many simple nursing procedures, thus freeing them for those services only registered nurses can do; to give the little extra nursing care for patients that keep them happy and content, and to help in the preparation and care of working materials, equipment, and supplies.

Those interested in serving the community as Red Cross volunteer nurses' aides must be between the ages 18-55 and have a high school education.

Prospective members are asked to contact the chapter, 308 Clinton avenue, for further details.

As Pegler Sees It

cal help, free. We are as busy as they are.

I doubt that General Eisenhower even knows the nature of this change in the relation between the citizen and Congress. There is nothing in his stuff to indicate that he ever gave it any thought unless it is that vague, undocumented reference to the concentrations of taxing power in Washington which he seemed to object to. It is a long time since he was one of us people.

Millions of us can look forward to nothing more in the way of assured pension than the paltry fraud of old age pension under social security which is not a fund but a deficit. Eisenhower rates at least $25,000 a year. The prospect for most of us is about $65 a month. We will not even get this, however, if we continue to earn more than $400 a year by work. If we get $50,000 a year from investments our pension rights are not affected. But we must not earn more than $400 a year, or $1.15 a day, by work. Work is represensible.

But congressmen and senators, thousands of old judges, all kinds of useless parasites in the bureaucracies of federal, state and inferior administrations; short-enlistment soldiers, and sailors; state department study-bums, firemen, cops, professors and schoolma'ams, actually millions of them, are compiling pension rights which mount up to literally billions of dollars of debts upon our people. These are a first lien on the earnings of the faceless masses who comprise the American nation. Billions and billions must be set aside in non-risky, almost sterile funds to guarantee these pensions forever and a day at rates from $3,600 to $25,000 a year. And the "services" of all these people are all absolutely parasitic. They produce no wealth. They consume wealth that we workers produce. Yet they are our masters.

Jacoby on Canasta

BE CAUTIOUS—WATCH DISCARDS

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When is the best time to discard a black three? Some Canasta players say that the time to throw a black three is whenever you hold one, but my own opinion is that there is a right and a wrong time for such a discard.

It is true that a black three takes up valuable room in your hand. If you get rid of it, you make room for a more useful card. Nevertheless, a black three is a powerful defensive weapon and shouldn't be wasted. Discarding one on an unimportant pile is like using an elephant gun to shoot a rabbit.

If you happen to be dealt three or four black threes, you can surely afford to discard one of them at your first turn. If you have two black threes, you might wait one round before discarding one of them. If you have only one black three, however, save it for a crucial point in the discarding.

Your first discards in any hand should be dangerous cards. If the next player takes the pile promptly, he has picked up so few cards that you are still in good shape. If your dangerous discards get by safely, you will then be in position to make safer discards as the discard pile grows larger and larger.

Eventually, when you run out of safe discards, you will part with your black three. You have kept that for a rainy day, and you use it only then. The whole theory of discarding is that you become progressively more and more cautious as the discard pile grows, and you keep your safest possible discards for the last possible moment.

Some players follow the opposite theory, and they usually find themselves up to the ears in soup. If you begin by throwing your safe discards, you still have the dangerous cards in your hand. Sooner or later you'll have to throw a dangerous card, and then the pack will find a home in your opponent's hand.

Q—I was told last night that you are allowed to meld out in Samba with two black threes and a wild card. Is this so?

A—No. You are not allowed to meld any wild cards with black threes in either Samba or Canasta. The only possible melds are three or more black threes.

Q—Is there such a thing as a canasta of black threes?

A—No. There is no such thing. Such a canasta is impossible because there are not enough natural black threes to make a canasta—and you are not allowed to meld any wild cards with black threes.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Columning a Cinch

By FRANK TRIPP

Every now and then I get a letter from a friendly editor of doubtful wisdom who wants me to write a daily column instead of one a week. It's the one sign I see of decadence of the press. Otherwise it must be that newspapers are getting better and better, because more and more folks are reading them.

One time when I had the leisure, I wrote a column a day for two weeks to see how I'd like it; then gave them their just deserts. I tossed half in the wastebasket, dished the other half out one a week and went fishing.

This bombast is not to say that there aren't guys who write a column every day. Nor is it saying that I never did. In my time I often ground out some 4,000 words a day; which is equal to about seven of the effusions you're now reading; and no doubt they were a lot more interesting. Anyway the boss kept me on the pay roll.

Then what's wrong? If they'd pay for it, why not easily produce 500 to 600 words a day, seeing that many can be written by any ham in about half an hour. Pretty slick and easy way to make a living says you.

WELL, HERE'S what's wrong with it. As much as you may doubt the assertion, there has to be an idea in existence before the cutest scribbler can write 500 words; unless he's to reiterate in perpetuity that practice phrase about all good men coming to the aid of their party.

That phrase was invented back when good men didn't tell off their party. It might sometimes be more interesting than what gets writ, but there isn't much of a market for it—unless you name the men and can prove that they are aiding their party, which is seldom.

The idea is the thing. Anybody can learn to write, to compose; some better than others of course, but anyone who sets his mind to it can learn to put his thoughts on paper. Ah, but of what shall he write?

That's the rub. And it brings us to the reason that lazy old-timers either shy away from the daily stint, or get by with old yarns dished out to a new generation.

ABOUT FIVE YEARS ago a very clever and idea-saturated individual bought himself a reputed 50 grand a year income by first buying space in which to exploit his wares.

Ere long the syndicates were after him. A big one signed him up and the newcomer went to town with a daily column that was one of the best whole cloth offerings ever to appear in newspapers. They were swell.

What I call a "whole cloth" column is one supposed to be on the human interest side. It is one that doesn't lean on the day's news, the deeds, misdeeds and activities of celebrities and politics for its existence. The current events commentary column is a lead pipe cinch ideawise. Digging an idea out of the past or out of the air and developing it from whole cloth is something else.

Well that super-duper guy went like a house afire, with a whole cloth column daily for about a year. Then he clipped it to three a week. After another 10 months his retirement as a columnist was announced; on account of the press of other interests and on advice of his doctor. He was a big shot, but 50 grand a year, coming in sure-fire, no foolin', ain't hay even to big shots.

That gay though brief literary career could be going yet. Grinding out one a day used up the easy picking store of ideas that seemed to be inexhaustible and the time came when the prolific gent was earning his dough the hard way—hunting for things to write about.

THAT IS the nubbin of the whole cloth column. The idea is the only thing that worries the saps who write them. It may take a week to get an idea, but he should be reading meters who can't write it while his wife gets ready for the movies.

Now you know how to become a columnist, and I'll be expecting to read your stuff any day soon. But if it's to be a whole cloth column and if you want to stay in there and pitch, save your arm. And you may have enough left on the ball by World Series time to get in on the money.

That's why old roosters can't be coaxed into a spasm a day. They've seen too many of 'em come and go. I like the philosophy of our pilot, Russ Holderman, who says he doesn't want to be the most famous flier in the world—just the oldest.

By the way, did it occur to you that the only reason you're reading this hokum is that I didn't have an idea in the world to write about?

Aphid Control Requires Constant Vigil

By HENRY PREE
Written for NEA Service

Gardening would be much more fun if we did not have to combat those tiny sucking insects called aphids. In many gardens they are pest number one and once they put a good curl in the leaves or get down into the heads of flowers they are hard to control.

They are particularly fond of roses, deforming both new flower buds and leaf growth. The life history of aphids is so complicated that even the experts are stumped, but suffice to say — aphids are inevitable and must be fought continually.

Timing is important in aphid control, not only to kill the first few aphids before they can produce more but also to avoid killing their natural enemies such as ladybird beetles and aphid lions. There is no set time to spray for aphids. Just watch for them and spray when you see them.

Aphid control is not difficult if you do not let them get ahead of you. The old reliable Black Leaf 40 spray is always effective. However, the recently introduced lindane is said to give better results. Bear in mind that the insects must be hit with the chemical to kill them.

Many dahlia fanciers believe that the better dahlias are grown from cuttings—an easy method to try. The tubers are planted in flats of sandy soil and barely covered. When the new shoots have grown a few inches above the ground cut off a few of them just below a joint.

Place these cuttings in a mixture of sand and peat moss or vermiculite. Keep the rooting mixture moist. Shade the cuttings at first but when they start to grow give them all the sunlight possible.

Spring planting of border perennials in heavy clay soils is preferred over autumn planting as the plants avoid the hazard of rotting in wet soil and heaving due to alternate freezing and thawing during the winter.

The old gardener suggests consideration of the following and urges planting in a well-drained, deeply dug, enriched soil.

HEMEROCALLIS (day lily). The day lily is a fine addition to any garden. It is remarkable not only for the length and color range of its bloom, but for its resistance to cold and drought.

SHASTY DAISY Marconi. This is the largest of the double Shasta daisies. The pure white, four-inch flowers have fringed petals. It is near the top of the list for long bloom. Bushy, sometimes it grows more than three feet high.

ASTER FRIKARTII. Just a mention here, because this lavender-blue flower aster is far from a stranger. But not to include it would be a serious omission.

CAMPANULA Poscharskyanna. Bell Flower. Long blooming and easy to grow, this perennial appears on almost every preferred list. From spreading mats of heart-shaped foliage, it sends out sprays of starry blue flowers during summer and fall. Cut it back after first bloom.

CERASTOSTIGMA plumbaginoides. Plumbago Larpentiae. This eight to 10-inch perennial has deep blue flowers in late summer and fall. The bronzy green leaves turn rich red in fall. Excellent edger, ground cover, in sun or light shade.

Course Planned For Nurses' Aides

The Red Cross chairman of volunteer groups, Mrs. William H. Merrill, today announced that a class of volunteer nurses' aides will start at the Kingston Hospitol May 27. The course will be taught by Mrs. Pauline Gantner, RN.

The specific training for the volunteer nurses' aide service is an 80-hour course in hospital skills and techniques. The entire course will be completed in five and half weeks. Classes will be held Tuesday through Friday from 9 a. m. until 12 noon.

The duties of nurses' aides are to assist register nurses by performing many simple nursing procedures, thus freeing them for those services only registered nurses can do; to give the little extra nursing care for patients that keep them happy and content, and to help in the preparation and care of working materials, equipment, and supplies.

Those interested in serving the community as Red Cross volunteer nurses' aides must be between the ages 18-55 and have a high school education.

Prospective members are asked to contact the chapter, 308 Clinton avenue, for further details.

As Pegler Sees It

cal help, free. We are as busy as they are.

I doubt that General Eisenhower even knows the nature of this change in the relation between the citizen and Congress. There is nothing in his stuff to indicate that he ever gave it any thought unless it is that vague, undocumented reference to the concentrations of taxing power in Washington which he seemed to object to. It is a long time since he was one of us people.

Millions of us can look forward to nothing more in the way of assured pension than the paltry fraud of old age pension under social security which is not a fund but a deficit. Eisenhower rates at least $25,000 a year. The prospect for most of us is about $65 a month. We will not even get this, however, if we continue to earn more than $400 a year by work. If we get $50,000 a year from investments our pension rights are not affected. But we must not earn more than $400 a year, or $1.15 a day, by work. Work is represensible.

But congressmen and senators, thousands of old judges, all kinds of useless parasites in the bureaucracies of federal, state and inferior administrations; short-enlistment soldiers, and sailors; state department study-bums, firemen, cops, professors and schoolma'ams, actually millions of them, are compiling pension rights which mount up to literally billions of dollars of debts upon our people. These are a first lien on the earnings of the faceless masses who comprise the American nation. Billions and billions must be set aside in non-risky, almost sterile funds to guarantee these pensions forever and a day at rates from $3,600 to $25,000 a year. And the "services" of all these people are all absolutely parasitic. They produce no wealth. They consume wealth that we workers produce. Yet they are our masters.

Jacoby on Canasta

BE CAUTIOUS—WATCH DISCARDS

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When is the best time to discard a black three? Some Canasta players say that the time to throw a black three is whenever you hold one, but my own opinion is that there is a right and a wrong time for such a discard.

It is true that a black three takes up valuable room in your hand. If you get rid of it, you make room for a more useful card. Nevertheless, a black three is a powerful defensive weapon and shouldn't be wasted. Discarding one on an unimportant pile is like using an elephant gun to shoot a rabbit.

If you happen to be dealt three or four black threes, you can surely afford to discard one of them at your first turn. If you have two black threes, you might wait one round before discarding one of them. If you have only one black three, however, save it for a crucial point in the discarding.

Your first discards in any hand should be dangerous cards. If the next player takes the pile promptly, he has picked up so few cards that you are still in good shape. If your dangerous discards get by safely, you will then be in position to make safer discards as the discard pile grows larger and larger.

Eventually, when you run out of safe discards, you will part with your black three. You have kept that for a rainy day, and you use it only then. The whole theory of discarding is that you become progressively more and more cautious as the discard pile grows, and you keep your safest possible discards for the last possible moment.

Some players follow the opposite theory, and they usually find themselves up to the ears in soup. If you begin by throwing your safe discards, you still have the dangerous cards in your hand. Sooner or later you'll have to throw a dangerous card, and then the pack will find a home in your opponent's hand.

Q—I was told last night that you are allowed to meld out in Samba with two black threes and a wild card. Is this so?

A—No. You are not allowed to meld any wild cards with black threes in either Samba or Canasta. The only possible melds are three or more black threes.

Q—Is there such a thing as a canasta of black threes?

A—No. There is no such thing. Such a canasta is impossible because there are not enough natural black threes to make a canasta—and you are not allowed to meld any wild cards with black threes.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Ulster Academy Class of 1915 at Reunion Luncheon

The 1915 Class of Ulster Academy held a luncheon at the Governor Clinton Hotel at noon on May 16 in conjunction with its participation in the general activities of the alumni reunion of the graduates of the three local Academies and the High School. Affording the class members an opportunity to renew acquaintance with each other, in some instances for the entire 37 years, the luncheon was well attended. Out of a class of 27 who received diplomas as the last class to graduate from the historic school, 17 were in attendance for the reunion. In the course of contacting the members of the class for the occasion it was learned that six of the former members have died. The ones who were unable to be present are at such a great distance from Kingston that the time and travel necessary were prohibitive.

The Class had as its guests at the luncheon three former members of the faculty of Ulster Academy. They were Miss Harriet V. Parker, Miss Bessie Barkley and Mrs. Mary C. Doremus. Members of the other Ulster Academy classes greeted them when the entire alumni group gathered at the Stadium. They remained in Kingston to attend the Ulster Academy P. V. P. girls at their annual reunion held Saturday at Nieuw Dorp Inn in Hurley.

The 1915 class members present were:

Catherine Barrett Dittmar, Kingston.
Helen Connelly Peyer, Kingston.
Eleanor Cooper Moore, West Caldwell, N. J.
Bernard A. Culloton, Kingston.

Ike Holds Huge Edge In Oregon Primary

Portland, Ore., May 19 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower maintained his huge lead today over Republican opponents in the Oregon primary election.

Returns from more than two thirds of the state's 2269 precincts showed Republican voters in Friday's election gave him 151,293 votes to 36,951 for second-place Gov. Earl Warren of California.

On the Democratic side, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee had 128,062 — a lead of 101,593 over Associate Justice William O. Douglas of the U. S. Supreme Court. Both Douglas and Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois—who polled 18,457 votes—were unwilling candidates.

The vote for other Republican candidates was: Gen. Douglas McArthur, 16,199; Sen. Wayne L. Morse of Oregon, 6,556; Harold E. Stassen, 5,866; William R. Schneider, of St. Louis, 345. MacArthur and Morse also were unwilling candidates.

Local Businessmen Attend NY Meeting

Walter Smith, proprietor of the Walter Smith Battery and Welding Service, and Harry Post, of the same firm, have returned from New York where they attended an all-day session conducted by Linde Air Products Company, a division of Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation, for its distributors.

The new All Purpose oxygen and acetylene cylinders and the 1952 line of new Prest-O-Weld welding and cutting equipment and Prest-O-Lite air-acetylene heating and soldering appliances, were described, Smith said. Linde's new oxygen therapy film, entitled Oxygen Dosage and Techniques, demonstrating the latest equipment and techniques in administering oxygen to patients suffering from respiratory diseases, heart conditions or shock, were shown.

Controls Suspended

Washington, May 19 (AP)—Government price controls on raw cotton and cotton textiles have been suspended, Rep. Brown (D.-Ga.) said today. The congressman told a reporter he had been informed that the price ceilings on these commodities have been suspended by Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall. Brown said an official announcement would be made later in the day.

Panama, Panama, May 19 (AP)—Panamanians voted again yesterday for the second successive Sunday, this time for mayors and city councilmen. They still don't know whom they elected president a week ago. The leisurely counting of the presidential vote is less than half through.

commentary identifying the class and its prominent members. The oldest living graduates of the three academies were the first to arrive and take their places in the seats reserved for them. They were followed by alumni of Kingston High School, class 1916-1935.

The May Day activities included the grand procession of all participants and was followed by the entry of the Queen and her Court. The commentary on this part of the program was presented by Carl Constant, president, KHS student council.

The crowning of the queen followed an address by Edmund Bower, as the prime minister. Miss Netherwood was chosen, said Mr. Bower, for her beauty, graciousness, sincerity, and good fellowship. Her highness expressed her appreciation for the honor bestowed upon her and summoned the captains of the school teams to her throne, presenting each with a rose from her bouquet.

Colorful and graceful were the folk dances portrayed by the attractive young ladies, students at the Myron J. Michael and Kingston High Schools. Dressed in authentic costumes, the participants danced gaily to appropriate tunes, in the Dutch, Italian, Irish, German, Polish and May Pole dances.

The costumes were made possible, it was announced through the courtesy and financial assistance of the Holland Society of New York, the Polish American Society of Kingston and the Kingston Mannerchor, Inc.

An exhibition of agility and excellent timing was displayed by members of the Kingston High School Gymnasium Club and the tumblers from Myron J. Michael school.

The twirlers' drill was a graceful study in precision and technique.

As always, the popular Kingston High School band was enthusiastically greeted as it led the parade up Broadway and played at the stadium. The band was under the capable direction of Marlin Morette. Its first selection was the Ulster Academy school song. This was followed by the Kingston Academy Alma Mater, written by Sam Scudder who was in attendance.

First May Day

May Day exercises were instituted in this city by Kingston Academy in 1905, when the former Miss Elizabeth Tallman Winne, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ogden F. Winne of Albany avenue, was crowned as the first May Queen. Miss Winne, who is now Mrs. Frederick C. Sutro, 575 Westminster avenue, Elizabeth, N. J., was a member of the class of 1905 but was elected May Queen in 1904 during her junior year at the Academy.

Mrs. Sutro, mother of three sons, is a first cousin of Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler of this city, wife of the late Judge Fowler. She was deeply moved by the pageant and her part in it. "I enjoyed it very much," she said. "It was a beautiful thing."

She recalled the first May Day celebration at the old Academy, no longer standing, located at that time across the street from the site of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mrs. Sutro reminisced that the Academy had been a "very shapely brick building with porches on three sides." She described the beauty of the grounds as she remembered them and the outstanding group of educators who headed the institution, saying that she felt "very fortunate in having been in such an atmosphere."

Four Are Injured

Bernard Donnelly suffered head injuries.

Says Car Hits Pole

Orlando N. Esposito, 31, of 51 Lindsley avenue, the report said, was driving south on Albany avenue when the Donnelly car passed him. He saw it leave the road and strike the pole after which it "skidded around," struck and damaged his car on the left front and rear fenders.

The injured were taken to the hospital by ambulance, and the car, described as a "complete wreck" was removed by a wrecker.

The telephone pole was reported "broken and dangerous" and the telephone company was notified. Officers William Hanley and Harold DeGraff investigated.

Held For No License

Henry Thomas, of 20 Ann street, was arrested on charges of possessing no operator's license or registration Saturday after the car he was driving ran into a pole at Broadway and Mill street.

The police report at 8:05 p. m., said William Norton had called a patrol car to Broadway and Mill street, and Officers DeGraff and Hanley were dispatched there. Thomas was released on bail for appearance before Special City Judge Harry Gold today. The case was adjourned until Tuesday.

A sedan driven north on Wurts street by John Claude Ragerie, of 21 East 18th street, Paterson, N. J., Saturday night struck a pole on the southwest corner of Wurts and West Union street, but no injuries were reported.

The police report at 9:56 p. m., said the car had skidded. The Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., was notified.

The other mishap was reported at 12:59 a. m., Sunday near the mushroom plant on Delaware avenue, where, Officers James Harbeck and John Crespino said a sedan owned and operated by Thomas Welch, 12 Pine street, "failed to make a turn," and skidded into a fence. The car was towed from the scene, but no injuries were reported.

'He actually began studying for this day when he was 35 years of age," Mrs. Edith Parsons recalled. "It is like a wonderful thing come true."

Studying meant dovetailing working hours as an emergency division policeman with classes. Once Parsons had to get special permission to work nights so that he could attend classes during the day.

In 1948, he received a Bachelor of Science degree from New York University. Years later, work at the Union Theological Seminary and Columbia University resulted in an MA degree.

In the four years since his first ordination, Parsons has been assistant pastor in charge of youth work at the Fordham Methodist Church.

Parsons thinks his police work gave him invaluable experience in dealing with people, and, he says, he has the foundest memories of his colleagues on the force.

Washington, May 19 (AP)—Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), newly schooled by President Truman in the ways of politics, will not endorse a presidential candidate until after the major party nominating conventions in July. Delegates to the ADA convention voted unanimously yesterday to defer action because to do otherswise, a political policy statement said, would "weaken our strength at the national conventions" in Chicago. The night before, the delegates cheered Truman as he predicted the Democratic party will nominate a "liberal" for president and win in November. He said the Republicans will defeat themselves because their program will "scare the daylights" out of the voters.

The 1915 Class of Ulster Academy held a luncheon at the Governor Clinton Hotel at noon on May 16 in conjunction with its participation in the general activities of the alumni reunion of the graduates of the three local Academies and the High School. Affording the class members an opportunity to renew acquaintance with each other, in some instances for the entire 37 years, the luncheon was well attended. Out of a class of 27 who received diplomas as the last class to graduate from the historic school, 17 were in attendance for the reunion. In the course of contacting the members of the class for the occasion it was learned that six of the former members have died. The ones who were unable to be present are at such a great distance from Kingston that the time and travel necessary were prohibitive.

The Class had as its guests at the luncheon three former members of the faculty of Ulster Academy. They were Miss Harriet V. Parker, Miss Bessie Barkley and Mrs. Mary C. Doremus. Members of the other Ulster Academy classes greeted them when the entire alumni group gathered at the Stadium. They remained in Kingston to attend the Ulster Academy P. V. P. girls at their annual reunion held Saturday at Nieuw Dorp Inn in Hurley.

The 1915 class members present were:

Catherine Barrett Dittmar, Kingston.
Helen Connelly Peyer, Kingston.
Eleanor Cooper Moore, West Caldwell, N. J.
Bernard A. Culloton, Kingston.
Frank DuMond, Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Ike Holds Huge Edge In Oregon Primary

Portland, Ore., May 19 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower maintained his huge lead today over Republican opponents in the Oregon primary election.

Returns from more than two thirds of the state's 2269 precincts showed Republican voters in Friday's election gave him 151,293 votes to 36,951 for second-place Gov. Earl Warren of California.

On the Democratic side, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee had 128,062 — a lead of 101,593 over Associate Justice William O. Douglas of the U. S. Supreme Court. Both Douglas and Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois—who polled 18,457 votes—were unwilling candidates.

The vote for other Republican candidates was: Gen. Douglas McArthur, 16,199; Sen. Wayne L. Morse of Oregon, 6,556; Harold E. Stassen, 5,866; William R. Schneider, of St. Louis, 345. MacArthur and Morse also were unwilling candidates.

commentary identifying the class and its prominent members. The oldest living graduates of the three academies were the first to arrive and take their places in the seats reserved for them. They were followed by alumni of Kingston High School, class 1916-1935.

The May Day activities included the grand procession of all participants and was followed by the entry of the Queen and her Court. The commentary on this part of the program was presented by Carl Constant, president, KHS student council.

The crowning of the queen followed an address by Edmund Bower, as the prime minister. Miss Netherwood was chosen, said Mr. Bower, for her beauty, graciousness, sincerity, and good fellowship. Her highness expressed her appreciation for the honor bestowed upon her and summoned the captains of the school teams to her throne, presenting each with a rose from her bouquet.

Colorful and graceful were the folk dances portrayed by the attractive young ladies, students at the Myron J. Michael and Kingston High Schools. Dressed in authentic costumes, the participants danced gaily to appropriate tunes, in the Dutch, Italian, Irish, German, Polish and May Pole dances.

The costumes were made possible, it was announced through the courtesy and financial assistance of the Holland Society of New York, the Polish American Society of Kingston and the Kingston Mannerchor, Inc.

An exhibition of agility and excellent timing was displayed by members of the Kingston High School Gymnasium Club and the tumblers from Myron J. Michael school.

The twirlers' drill was a graceful study in precision and technique.

As always, the popular Kingston High School band was enthusiastically greeted as it led the parade up Broadway and played at the stadium. The band was under the capable direction of Marlin Morette. Its first selection was the Ulster Academy school song. This was followed by the Kingston Academy Alma Mater, written by Sam Scudder who was in attendance.

First May Day

May Day exercises were instituted in this city by Kingston Academy in 1905, when the former Miss Elizabeth Tallman Winne, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ogden F. Winne of Albany avenue, was crowned as the first May Queen. Miss Winne, who is now Mrs. Frederick C. Sutro, 575 Westminster avenue, Elizabeth, N. J., was a member of the class of 1905 but was elected May Queen in 1904 during her junior year at the Academy.

Mrs. Sutro, mother of three sons, is a first cousin of Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler of this city, wife of the late Judge Fowler. She was deeply moved by the pageant and her part in it. "I enjoyed it very much," she said. "It was a beautiful thing."

She recalled the first May Day celebration at the old Academy, no longer standing, located at that time across the street from the site of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mrs. Sutro reminisced that the Academy had been a "very shapely brick building with porches on three sides." She described the beauty of the grounds as she remembered them and the outstanding group of educators who headed the institution, saying that she felt "very fortunate in having been in such an atmosphere."

Four Are Injured

Bernard Donnelly suffered head injuries.

Says Car Hits Pole

Orlando N. Esposito, 31, of 51 Lindsley avenue, the report said, was driving south on Albany avenue when the Donnelly car passed him. He saw it leave the road and strike the pole after which it "skidded around," struck and damaged his car on the left front and rear fenders.

The injured were taken to the hospital by ambulance, and the car, described as a "complete wreck" was removed by a wrecker.

The telephone pole was reported "broken and dangerous" and the telephone company was notified. Officers William Hanley and Harold DeGraff investigated.

Held For No License

Henry Thomas, of 20 Ann street, was arrested on charges of possessing no operator's license or registration Saturday after the car he was driving ran into a pole at Broadway and Mill street.

The police report at 8:05 p. m., said William Norton had called a patrol car to Broadway and Mill street, and Officers DeGraff and Hanley were dispatched there. Thomas was released on bail for appearance before Special City Judge Harry Gold today. The case was adjourned until Tuesday.

A sedan driven north on Wurts street by John Claude Ragerie, of 21 East 18th street, Paterson, N. J., Saturday night, struck a pole on the southwest corner of Wurts and West Union street, but no injuries were reported.

The police report at 9:56 p. m., said the car had skidded. The Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., was notified.

The other mishap was reported at 12:59 a. m., Sunday near the mushroom plant on Delaware avenue, where, Officers James Harbeck and John Crespino said a sedan owned and operated by Thomas Welch, 12 Pine street, "failed to make a turn," and skidded into a fence. The car was towed from the scene, but no injuries were reported.

about the time he joined the force, back in 1929. They have a daughter, Pauline, 16, now a member of a church youth club he directs. It was meeting to celebrate his ordination even as the new minister was being interviewed.

'He actually began studying for this day when he was 35 years of age," Mrs. Edith Parsons recalled. "It is like a wonderful thing come true."

Studying meant dovetailing working hours as an emergency division policeman with classes. Once Parsons had to get special permission to work nights so that he could attend classes during the day.

In 1948, he received a Bachelor of Science degree from New York University. Years later, work at the Union Theological Seminary and Columbia University resulted in an MA degree.

In the four years since his first ordination, Parsons has been assistant pastor in charge of youth work at the Fordham Methodist Church.

Parsons thinks his police work gave him invaluable experience in dealing with people, and, he says, he has the foundest memories of his colleagues on the force.

But for him it had to be the ministry, finally.

Eighteen Models of Other Makes of Cars Cost More!

Official price lists show that there are eighteen different models of American motor cars, produced by five separate automotive manufacturers, which actually cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac—when similarly equipped.

If you find this difficult to believe—then you're in good company!

For the record also shows that, during the past few years, literally hundreds of thousands of motorists have taken title to these costlier models. And there can be little doubt that many of them did so simply because they failed to realize how relatively modest the cost of a Cadillac car can be.

They simply assumed that exclusive in quality means exclusive in price! And it is doubtful if a single misunderstanding ever cost so many motorists so much!

It cost them, first of all, the satisfaction of owning a Cadillac! For there is no substitute for the sense of pride and well-being that comes from owning a motor car that is universally recognized as the "Standard of the World."

It cost them, too, the pleasure of driving a Cadillac! And this, beyond any question, is the greatest penalty of all! For in missing out on Cadillac's marvelous handling ease, its superb power and quiet, and on the wonderful rest and relaxation to be found behind its wheel—they're missing out on motoring's finest rewards.

And, of course, it also cost them Cadillac's many long-range economies—its almost unbelievable gasoline mileage, its unsurpassed dependability, and its legendary long life.

* * * *

We know that you wouldn't want to make such a costly mistake in the selection of your next car. But you'd better be careful—because there are eighteen different ways to make it!

So when the time comes—investigate! And if you pay the price of a Cadillac—be sure that you get one!

The Mature Parent

Courtroom Conversation With Delinquent Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

We were waiting for a session of the juvenile court to open, this mother and I.

"I want to get the day of my kid's hearing changed," she said. "But I don't want to get the judge sore at me. He wants me to take the boy home for two days before he's sent up."

She wore a green scarf tied under her chin. Framed in it, her face was as placid and expressionless as a middle-aged doll's. When I didn't speak, she went on, lowering her voice just so I could hear.

"Why should I take him home? I don't want to be responsible for what he might do. He's the court's job now, not mine, isn't he? Why don't they just send him up? That's all I want." She sighed. "Yes, that's all I want. I want to see him sent up until he's 18."

I felt my face going rigid with distaste and hastily rearranged it. I warned to myself, "Look here, you haven't been appointed to sit in judgment here. You're in this place to look, listen and try to understand."

So I said to the woman, "How old is your boy?"

"He'll be 13 next month," she said. "I don't know why they won't let you smoke in here. He's bad, this kid. Bad blood. I don't want to be held responsible."

I spoke carefully. "Nobody's born bad. Not your boy, not you, not me, not anyone."

"He curses me," she said. "I don't know why. He curses me if I tell him to do anything."

"Perhaps," I said, "he's frightened at being ashamed. Children are not supposed to curse us. Perhaps he's terribly ashamed. When I'm ashamed, I always get angry. Have you ever been ashamed?"

She gave me a dubious sidelong look. "Me?" she echoed. Then she shook her head. "Not me. I've never done anything to be ashamed of."

"That's hard on you," I said. "It's hard for a mother to know when her child is ashamed if she herself doesn't know what the feeling is like."

I got another sidelong glance. There was a little pause. Then the mother of the delinquent child said, "I never had no mother myself."

The sun through the tall windows was warm on our backs. Somewhere off in a distanct corridor, a woman was crying. Beside me the human being who wanted her child "sent up" for five years of his young life unbuttoned her shabby coat.

"No, I never had no home or parents," she said in her inflectionless voice. "My mother died when I was born and my old man took up with some woman. My aunt raised me. Say, was I knocked around? Listen, if I told you how I was knocked around . . . "

I report this conversation for a reader who has asked me if I approve of punishing the parents of delinquent children.

I do not. I could no more approve of punishing the unconscious creature who sat beside me that day in the juvenile court than I could approve punishing dogs for chasing cats, cabbages for not being roses, or famine victims for developing nutritional disorders.

What I could most heartily approve would be better public support of juvenile court clinics for the treatment of emotionally stunted parents as well as their offspring.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)

ALMOST UNSOLVABLE

A really hard situation to meet is described as follows: "My husband and I often go out to dinner or to a supper club with several other couples. Neither my husband nor I eat very much, and we don't drink at all, but most of our friends like to do both. They usually have several cocktails apiece and order the most expensive food on the menu. When the bill comes, it is always suggested that it be divided equally. I resent this very much as we are in modest circumstances and I can't see paying for something we didn't have. Is there any way my husband can tactfully suggest that he pay only for what we order without appearing 'cheap'?

A very intimate friend who realizes the unfairness of your situation could suggest that this be done for you, but neither you nor your husband could possibly make such a suggestion yourselves.

"Thank-You" Gifts

Dear Mrs. Post: During a recent illness, my neighbors were most kind to me. Not only did they look after my young daughter, but they also prepared food and brought it in to me every day. I can't tell you how much these kindnesses meant to me, and now that I am well again I would like to show my appreciation in some way. Should I write notes to each of these neighbors thanking them for their kindness, and, also, should I send each one a small present with the note?

Answer: I think an appreciative note to each would be sufficient. If you want to send gifts, I would, in your place, wait before sending any until you happen to know of something each one wants.

Not Junior

Dear Mrs. Post: My name is exactly the same as my mother's. Would it be proper to add the suffix Jr. to my name in order to distinguish myself from my mother?

Answer: You cannot add Jr. to your name because it is a masculine suffix. But you can add Yr. (Younger) to your name.

How should the young men of a small wedding be dressed? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-8 includes details for small weddings. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Hold Ceremonies To Welcome New Woodstock Bank

Woodstock, May 19—As the climax of a "memorable day in the history of Woodstock," members and friends of the Woodstock Business Association and officials of the Bank of Orange County, gathered at Deanies Saturday night to welcome the Woodstock branch of the institution, which had opened at 9 a. m. with brief ceremonies.

High tribute was paid to Kenneth Wilson, town supervisor and John Egan, attorney, whose ceaseless efforts, despite setbacks and disappointments for the past three years, have brought what Wilson described as a "cooperative and progressive bank" to Woodstock.

"This is one of the happiest days of my life," Wilson asserted. "Today my dream—a determined dream—came true. John Egan and I are used to disappointments," he said, and it was with regret he had to announce that Francis W. Murray, Jr., president of the Bank of Orange County, was prevented by illness from attending the dinner.

Wilson commended the enthusiasm shown and the many courtesies extended to him and John Egan by Francis W. Murray, Jr., and the directors of the Goshen Bank during the period of negotiations. "We are dealing," Wilson stated, "with good, honest, frank men."

Wilson then introduced George W. Luft, Jr., vice president and cashier of the Bank of Orange County, Henry W. Hopkins, Nicholas Kolk, I. Harold Houston and Raymond I. Suresky, directors of the Goshen bank. Wilson also introduced another director, William A. Mayo, who is also a law partner of Philip Rorty, a brother of the late Marion Bullard of Woodstock.

Mayo, in reviewing briefly the history of the Orange county institution, said that it had survived the eras of Napoleon, Hitler and now Stalin. He observed that Kenneth Wilson and John Egan were "dynamos in blue serge and grey flannel suits."

In introducing Francis A. Florin, executive assistant to William Lyon, state superintendent of banks, Mayo explained that he had "guided us through the intricacies of converting from a national to a state bank." Florin extended greeting from the Banking Department of the State of New York in the absence of Lyon. He referred to Francis W. Murray, Jr., Kenneth Wilson and John Egan as the "dynamic combination which has sparked this enterprise."

The warmth of the reception given Saturday to the new institution by the entire village was attested by John Egan who described the activities at the bank building Friday afternoon. "Everyone came in and volunteered to do a job," he said. "Our famous artists here came in to help hang the pictures."

Edwin Swenson, manager of the Woodstock office, was presented by Wilson as "an able troubleshooter, with life-long experience in the field."

Swenson thanked the folks of Woodstock for so gracious a reception and said that "we are trying to give the people and neighbors of this community cooperation and service."

Ceremonies were opened by William Hand, president of the Woodstock Business Association, who presented Leon Carey, first president of the association. Carey brought a festive note to the occasion by announcing that the "new bank will never be as shaky as I am now!"

Members of the advisory committee of the Woodstock bank, who were welcomed by Wilson were DeWitt A. Shultis, Woodstock; Robert Haver, Ashokan; Herbert Dibbell, Shokan; Reginald Every, Mt. Tremper, and William C. Weyman, Phoenicia.

Concluding with compliments to all who had helped to bring the bank to Woodstock, Wilson observed that he has "so much faith in our future and in the whole town of Woodstock."

Music during the dinner in the gallery room, which was filled to capacity, was provided by Clementine Nessel.

Deposit Quarter Million on First Day in New Bank

Woodstock, May 19—In a statement late Saturday night at the Woodstock Branch of the Bank of Orange County, Edwin Swenson, manager, revealed that "very nearly a quarter-of-a-million dollars had been in deposits during the first day of operation."

From the moment the doors of the trim brick and white woodwork structure opened promptly at 9 a. m., with a brief ceremonies conducted by the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, a steady stream of visitors, a large part of them bent on business as well as an inspection tour, passed through the building throughout the day. Sunny skies and a brisk May morning contributed to the holiday atmosphere of the village green.

Set back pleasantly under the giant trees which line the lower part of Rock City Road, the small building which had been awaiting its new tenant for so many weeks, suddenly acquired within the space of 24 hours, a decorative, lived-in appearance with the rapidity of the construction of a motion picture set. Signs went up, window displays were placed late Friday afternoon, and just before dusk the huge road trucks laid the gravel driveway.

All during Saturday morning florists trucks deposited baskets and bouquets of flowers which soon banked the light ivory walls of the interior.

At 10:30 a. m. a flurry of excitement was caused by the arrival of John Groves, Ulster county treasurer, who conferred with Swenson and George Luft, Jr., cashier and vice-president of the Bank of Orange County.

During a short lull, Swenson explained to visitors that this was a unique branch bank in that the main office is 60 miles away. "But the people at the main office," he said, "are absolutely willing that it be Woodstock entirely."

Although visitors were in a decided holiday mood, each of whom departed with a bright rose or a cigar, it was a busy day for the new staff, Sally Anne Green and Rudolf Baumgarten, who worked with smooth efficiency behind the maple and cool green virmica counters.

One visitor noted that the handsome draperies, also in tones of green, were one of the new series of textile designs recently given much publicity in the New York shops. It was Grant Woods' Paul Revere pattern, one of a group which included textile designs from paintings by Doris Lee and Arnold Blanch, noted Woodstock artists. Paintings by both of these artists enhance the walls of the new bank, along with a portrait of Alexander Peacock by Allen Cochran, a seascape by Anton Otto Fischer and landscapes by the late John Carlson. Mrs. Carlson arranged the paintings.

It would seem that their labors might be considered finished with the formal opening of the bank, but Kenneth Wilson and John Egan as a reception committee throughout the day were zestful hosts to the village from early morning until long past regular banking hours. No aspect of the bank was too large or too small for them to explain to visitors. With obvious pride, they made everyone in the community who came to see the new bank, feel that this was something in which he could share and be equally proud.

Greetings and flowers were sent by the Mosler Safe Co., the Kingston Trust Company, the Ulster County Savings Institution, the Saugerties Savings Bank, the Woodstock Business Association, the officers and directors of the National Ulster County Bank of Kingston, William Rylance & Sons, Kingston, the State of New York National Bank, Kingston, and the officers and directors of the Chase National Bank.

To Present Truman With Swift Portrait

Woodstock, May 19—A copy of a portrait by Thomas Sully, of the first graduate of West Point, painted by the late Charles Rosen, eminent Woodstock artist, in 1913, will be presented to President Harry S. Truman, May 20, at West Point. The presentation of the portrait of General Joseph Swift, to the president who will be one of the principal speakers of the day, will be a part of the convocation, climaxing West Point's Sesquicentennial celebration this year.

According to Major General F. A. Irving, superintendent of West Point, the United States Military Academy is presenting to the president, in conformity with established practice for such an event, a gift which is considered to possess singular intrinsic and sentimental value.

Since officials at West Point had not been informed of Charles Rosen's death in June, 1950, an invitation was extended to the artist to witness the ceremonies. Arrangements have been made, however, for Mrs. Rosen and Charles Rosen's daughter, Mrs. Percy Warner, of Washington, D. C., to attend the convocation.

For years Rosen's portrait of Swift has been in the collection of superintendent's portraits hanging in Washington Hall at the Point. General Irving stated that it is still in excellent condition and is a highly regarded work of art. "All concerned consider that it is a most appropriate gift for the president of the United States. It is entirely probable that this portrait will eventually repose in the Truman Museum which is being projected for erection at Independence, Mo.

The brass plate of identification on the portrait attributes its source to Rosen's hand, acknowledging that it is a copy of the Sully, General Irving explained. Since it is exactly the same size as the Sully portrait and, as far as officials at the Point can see, is unsigned, there is danger at some future date that it might be mistaken for the Sully. Therefore, a notation of its actual status has been made by the art restorers on the back of the canvas itself in such a way that it is permanently affixed but in no way will endanger the face of the painting.

In the West Point collections, are two other portraits painted by Rosen, namely those of Captain Alden Partridge and Brigadier General Samuel E. Tillman. General Irving reported that these also are in excellent condition and "constitute important records in the pictorial history of West Point."

The portrait will be presented to the President during the review of the Corps of Cadets in his honor at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Good Taste Today

(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)

ALMOST UNSOLVABLE

A really hard situation to meet is described as follows: "My husband and I often go out to dinner or to a supper club with several other couples. Neither my husband nor I eat very much, and we don't drink at all, but most of our friends like to do both. They usually have several cocktails apiece and order the most expensive food on the menu. When the bill comes, it is always suggested that it be divided equally. I resent this very much as we are in modest circumstances and I can't see paying for something we didn't have. Is there any way my husband can tactfully suggest that he pay only for what we order without appearing 'cheap'?

A very intimate friend who realizes the unfairness of your situation could suggest that this be done for you, but neither you nor your husband could possibly make such a suggestion yourselves.

"Thank-You" Gifts

Dear Mrs. Post: During a recent illness, my neighbors were most kind to me. Not only did they look after my young daughter, but they also prepared food and brought it in to me every day. I can't tell you how much these kindnesses meant to me, and now that I am well again I would like to show my appreciation in some way. Should I write notes to each of these neighbors thanking them for their kindness, and, also, should I send each one a small present with the note?

Answer: I think an appreciative note to each would be sufficient. If you want to send gifts, I would, in your place, wait before sending any until you happen to know of something each one wants.

Not Junior

Dear Mrs. Post: My name is exactly the same as my mother's. Would it be proper to add the suffix Jr. to my name in order to distinguish myself from my mother?

Answer: You cannot add Jr. to your name because it is a masculine suffix. But you can add Yr. (Younger) to your name.

Hold Ceremonies To Welcome New Woodstock Bank

Woodstock, May 19—As the climax of a "memorable day in the history of Woodstock," members and friends of the Woodstock Business Association and officials of the Bank of Orange County, gathered at Deanies Saturday night to welcome the Woodstock branch of the institution, which had opened at 9 a. m. with brief ceremonies.

High tribute was paid to Kenneth Wilson, town supervisor and John Egan, attorney, whose ceaseless efforts, despite setbacks and disappointments for the past three years, have brought what Wilson described as a "cooperative and progressive bank" to Woodstock.

"This is one of the happiest days of my life," Wilson asserted. "Today my dream—a determined dream—came true. John Egan and I are used to disappointments," he said, and it was with regret he had to announce that Francis W. Murray, Jr., president of the Bank of Orange County, was prevented by illness from attending the dinner.

Wilson commended the enthusiasm shown and the many courtesies extended to him and John Egan by Francis W. Murray, Jr., and the directors of the Goshen Bank during the period of negotiations. "We are dealing," Wilson stated, "with good, honest, frank men."

Wilson then introduced George W. Luft, Jr., vice president and cashier of the Bank of Orange County, Henry W. Hopkins, Nicholas Kolk, I. Harold Houston and Raymond I. Suresky, directors of the Goshen bank. Wilson also introduced another director, William A. Mayo, who is also a law partner of Philip Rorty, a brother of the late Marion Bullard of Woodstock.

Mayo, in reviewing briefly the history of the Orange county institution, said that it had survived the eras of Napoleon, Hitler and now Stalin. He observed that Kenneth Wilson and John Egan were "dynamos in blue serge and grey flannel suits."

In introducing Francis A. Florin, executive assistant to William Lyon, state superintendent of banks, Mayo explained that he had "guided us through the intricacies of converting from a national to a state bank." Florin extended greeting from the Banking Department of the State of New York in the absence of Lyon. He referred to Francis W. Murray, Jr., Kenneth Wilson and John Egan as the "dynamic combination which has sparked this enterprise."

The warmth of the reception given Saturday to the new institution by the entire village was attested by John Egan who described the activities at the bank building Friday afternoon. "Everyone came in and volunteered to do a job," he said. "Our famous artists here came in to help hang the pictures."

Swenson thanked the folks of Woodstock for so gracious a reception and said that "we are trying to give the people and neighbors of this community cooperation and service."

Ceremonies were opened by William Hand, president of the Woodstock Business Association, who presented Leon Carey, first president of the association. Carey brought a festive note to the occasion by announcing that the "new bank will never be as shaky as I am now!"

Members of the advisory committee of the Woodstock bank, who were welcomed by Wilson were DeWitt A. Shultis, Woodstock; Robert Haver, Ashokan; Herbert Dibbell, Shokan; Reginald Every, Mt. Tremper, and William C. Weyman, Phoenicia.

Concluding with compliments to all who had helped to bring the bank to Woodstock, Wilson observed that he has "so much faith in our future and in the whole town of Woodstock."

Deposit Quarter Million on First Day in New Bank

Woodstock, May 19—In a statement late Saturday night at the Woodstock Branch of the Bank of Orange County, Edwin Swenson, manager, revealed that "very nearly a quarter-of-a-million dollars had been in deposits during the first day of operation."

From the moment the doors of the trim brick and white woodwork structure opened promptly at 9 a. m., with a brief ceremonies conducted by the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, a steady stream of visitors, a large part of them bent on business as well as an inspection tour, passed through the building throughout the day. Sunny skies and a brisk May morning contributed to the holiday atmosphere of the village green.

Set back pleasantly under the giant trees which line the lower part of Rock City Road, the small building which had been awaiting its new tenant for so many weeks, suddenly acquired within the space of 24 hours, a decorative, lived-in appearance with the rapidity of the construction of a motion picture set. Signs went up, window displays were placed late Friday afternoon, and just before dusk the huge road trucks laid the gravel driveway.

All during Saturday morning florists trucks deposited baskets and bouquets of flowers which soon banked the light ivory walls of the interior.

At 10:30 a. m. a flurry of excitement was caused by the arrival of John Groves, Ulster county treasurer, who conferred with Swenson and George Luft, Jr., cashier and vice-president of the Bank of Orange County.

During a short lull, Swenson explained to visitors that this was a unique branch bank in that the main office is 60 miles away. "But the people at the main office," he said, "are absolutely willing that it be Woodstock entirely."

Although visitors were in a decided holiday mood, each of whom departed with a bright rose or a cigar, it was a busy day for the new staff, Sally Anne Green and Rudolf Baumgarten, who worked with smooth efficiency behind the maple and cool green virmica counters.

It would seem that their labors might be considered finished with the formal opening of the bank, but Kenneth Wilson and John Egan as a reception committee throughout the day were zestful hosts to the village from early morning until long past regular banking hours. No aspect of the bank was too large or too small for them to explain to visitors. With obvious pride, they made everyone in the community who came to see the new bank, feel that this was something in which he could share and be equally proud.

Greetings and flowers were sent by the Mosler Safe Co., the Kingston Trust Company, the Ulster County Savings Institution, the Saugerties Savings Bank, the Woodstock Business Association, the officers and directors of the National Ulster County Bank of Kingston, William Rylance & Sons, Kingston, the State of New York National Bank, Kingston, and the officers and directors of the Chase National Bank.

To Present Truman With Swift Portrait

Woodstock, May 19—A copy of a portrait by Thomas Sully, of the first graduate of West Point, painted by the late Charles Rosen, eminent Woodstock artist, in 1913, will be presented to President Harry S. Truman, May 20, at West Point. The presentation of the portrait of General Joseph Swift, to the president who will be one of the principal speakers of the day, will be a part of the convocation, climaxing West Point's Sesquicentennial celebration this year.

According to Major General F. A. Irving, superintendent of West Point, the United States Military Academy is presenting to the president, in conformity with established practice for such an event, a gift which is considered to possess singular intrinsic and sentimental value.

Since officials at West Point had not been informed of Charles Rosen's death in June, 1950, an invitation was extended to the artist to witness the ceremonies. Arrangements have been made, however, for Mrs. Rosen and Charles Rosen's daughter, Mrs. Percy Warner, of Washington, D. C., to attend the convocation.

For years Rosen's portrait of Swift has been in the collection of superintendent's portraits hanging in Washington Hall at the Point. General Irving stated that it is still in excellent condition and is a highly regarded work of art. "All concerned consider that it is a most appropriate gift for the president of the United States. It is entirely probable that this portrait will eventually repose in the Truman Museum which is being projected for erection at Independence, Mo.

The brass plate of identification on the portrait attributes its source to Rosen's hand, acknowledging that it is a copy of the Sully, General Irving explained. Since it is exactly the same size as the Sully portrait and, as far as officials at the Point can see, is unsigned, there is danger at some future date that it might be mistaken for the Sully. Therefore, a notation of its actual status has been made by the art restorers on the back of the canvas itself in such a way that it is permanently affixed but in no way will endanger the face of the painting.

In the West Point collections, there are two other portraits painted by Rosen, namely those of Captain Alden Partridge and Brigadier General Samuel E. Tillman. General Irving reported that these also are in excellent condition and "constitute important records in the pictorial history of West Point."

The portrait will be presented to the President during the review of the Corps of Cadets in his honor at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday.

1951 Champions Off To Flying Start

The low-hit and shutout epidemic that is sweeping through the major leagues this spring picked on the City Baseball League's 1952 opener Sunday.

Big Jack Watzka, the Flatbush Fusileer who has spent years toiling with second division clubs in the city circuit, came up with a sparkling two-hit, 6 to 0, shutout triumph for Chez Emile over Jones Dairy in the wind-swept inaugural at the Athletic Field.

Until he was forced to retire because of a stiff shoulder in the seventh, the fireballing right hander had permitted only two widely scattered singles to Bob Graves and Charlie Neff.

Opening day ceremonies included brief speeches by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly, the 1951 president who is now serving as vice-president; President Ed Murphy and Bob Umpleby, KAA president who is director of Little League baseball in Kingston.

Among the other celebrities introduced by Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor, who was the master of ceremonies, included past President Jack Dawkins and Warren Smith, Secretary Robert Steeger; Joe Chick, collector, and the umpiring staff of Bill Schwab, Jack Rivenberg and Francis Stauble.

Good Turnout

The opening crowd was slow in arriving but by the middle of the contest a large turnout was sprawled in the bleachers and along the sidelines. The weather for the most part was sunny but a bit on the windy side and high popups and fly balls created a problem for the fielders.

Watzka needed relief for one putout by southpaw Bud Swarthoute en route to his decision over the all-time City League winning pitcher, Tommy Fisher. He walked five.

Dairymen Collapse

Fisher, who went the route while yielding seven hits and fanning seven, battled Big Jack on even terms for three innings but a collapsible defense and timely blows by Manager Joe Hoffman's Chezzies gave the 1951 champions seven runs in the next three innings.

Bob Graves, the Jones Dairy second sacker, committed three successive errors during Chez Emile's three-run fifth inning and the Dairymen's total mounted to seven before the game ended, an unprecedented total for a traditionally stout defensive club. Chezzies, on the other hand, backed Watzka with flawless support.

Fisher had six strikeouts in the first three frames but the Chezzies climbed on him for two quick runs in the fourth on Bob Gorsline's single, Bud Scheffel's double and Bob Olen's triple.

Sonny Barnes' double, three bobbles by Graves and a double steal on which Joe Norton scored were the principal ingredients in Chez Emile's three-run fifth. The sixth run had an authentic touch as the result of Barnes' second solo hit, a sacrifice by Watzka and Norton's run scoring single.

Barnes, the Chez Emile third baseman, was the only player with two hits—a single and double.

$197,122 In Bank For Pronto Don

He chalked up his 17th straight victory and ran his earnings to $197,122 Saturday in winning the $18,000 Mount Vernon free-for-all trot at the Yonkers Raceway's Grand Circuit meeting.

With Benny Schue handling the reins, Pronto trotted the mile in 2:06 4/5. He paid $2.50 for $2.

Pete Fuller Is In Olympic Boxing

Pete Fuller of Boston, the heavyweight star who gave Coley Wallace a great fight before the latter turned pro in 1949, is the latest mittslinger to enter the Eastern Olympic boxing tourney scheduled for Hawkins Stadium, May 26 and 27, under the co-sponsorship of the Adirondack AAU and the Albany Elks Club.

Fuller, son of former Governor Fuller of Massachusetts, is considered one of the most promising boys in the heavyweight ranks.

He is captain of wrestling at Harvard University but made his mark as a boxer. He boasts the New England AAU championship and was runner-up in the New York Golden Gloves tourney.

Bill Downing, the key man in Boston amateur boxing circles, considers Fuller one of the best boys he is grooming for the two-day Albany fisticuff carnival. Downing already has sent word to Ben Becker, tourney director, he will have a full team on hand for the Eastern meet.

Becker announced last night that Joe Hudson of Albany, former Adirondack AAU Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, also will seek honors in the Eastern Olympic trials.

Hudson, who won the 1951 Adirondack AAU crown but lost out to Bob Middleton of Schenectady in the 1952 meet in Odd Fellows Hall, Albany, has been training diligently for the Olympic test. Since his defeat at the hands of Middleton he is more determined than ever to gain an Olympic berth.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The first day of the annual Palm Beach Round Robin golf tournament at plush Wykagyl Country Club at New Rochelle is always a treat for this department.

Last Thursday we missed the usual clinic that precedes the opening of the unique tournament but caught Slammin' Sammy Snead at his best.

There can hardly be a greater treat in sports than watching a topnotcher at his peak. The White Sulphur Springs great powdered a five-under-par 67 for a plus-22 point lead.

The round robin scoring system devised by Elmer Ward for the Palm Beach play is rather intricate, but suffice to say that Sambo picked up his points at the expense of three of the world's finest—Byron "Lord" Nelson, Roberto DiVincenzo, the Argentine who captured the 1951 Palm Peach, and Max Faulkner, the 1951 British Open king.

The next time out Snead fired a 6-under 66 and followed with a 71 to spreadeagle the field at the 54-hole mark. Sam's putter is hot and he's a good bet to capture his first U. S. Open in June. That's the only major golf crown that has eluded him. Five times he has fluffed it on the last round, once on the last hole with a horrendous eight, when a five would have won.

You'll get no argument if you rate Ben Hogan a better golfer than Snead—the very best since Byron Nelson went into semi-retirement—but for all-round class and color Snead is still the mob's favorite. Hogan is flat, colorless, a merciless automaton on the fairways. He has no truck with the gallery and is a picture of stern concentration from the first tee to the last putt.

Maybe it's because Snead has been haunted by that great human frailty—missing short putts in crucial moments—that endears him to the gallery. He has a warm, human quality about him. He has the world's finest swing, still hits yards ahead of the field for distance and accuracy, and is the top man in spectator appeal department.

• The Nineteenth Hole:

Alex Gerlak can't take the time off from his Twaalfskill duties to compete in the PGA Nationals at Louisville, but it's nice to see the "old pro" leading the Northeastern PGA qualifiers. Several years ago when the Twaalfskill veteran was the terror of the Northeastern fairways, he made frequent visits to the PGA and U. S. Open. He led the first-day qualifying field at Pinehurst and in his first singles encounter had Denny Shute five-down at the end of nine. Shute made a great rally to edge Alex 1-up and later went on to capture the U. S. Open. Hank Kowal, the sweet swinger of the Dutchess Country Club tied for the qualifying medal with a 74 in the Walter J. Travis Memorial Tournament at Garden City. The Long Island course is regarded as one of the world's finest tests of golf. And nearby West Point's layout is described by some experts as the world's toughest. The first time Alex Gerlak saw the hilly layout which sprawls near the entrance gate at the Academy he quipped: "The safest way to play this course is to drive with your putter."

• Putt and Take Department:

Albany's Billy Shields, the current New York State Amateur champion, will make a bid for the British Amateur title in the six-day tournament that opens on May 26 at Prestwick, Scotland. Shields says he expects to spend a month in Europe and will compete in the French Amateur, if his entry is accepted. Although this is Shields' first try at the British title, he has competed in four U. S. Amateurs, once reaching the quarter-finals. Billy Maxwell, the U. S. Amateur king from Odessa, Tex., is the same lad who eliminated Leon Randall from the National Jaycee tournament in Houston a few years ago. If Maxwell cops the British Amateur, he will become the fifth swinger to hold the U. S. and British Amateur crowns simultaneously. Bobby Jones swept both tournaments in 1930, the year of his fabulous "Grand Slam." He won the Open titles of both countries that year, too. Lawson Little won both in 1931 and Jerome Travers won the American in 1903 and the British in the spring of 1904.

An interesting sidelight on Wykagyl Country Club is that the course was built by the late Lawrence Van Etten of Kingston and with Twaalfskill ranks as one of the oldest in the country.

Mrs. Cennith O'Reilly, of hole-in-one fame, and Robert Herzog, dealer in hardware, teamed up for a 92 to capture low gross honors in the Twaalfskill Club's first 2-ball mixed foursome competition of the season Sunday.

They shot an outgoing 44 and had 48 on the back turn.

Mrs. Burt MacFadden and Ed Remmert used a 24-stroke handicap to good advantage in posting the top net score of 67. They had a gross score of 91.

The field was the largest in history for a 2-ball mixed foursome at the Twaalfskill links. Chairman Floyd Flint and Mrs. William Kelly, chairmen of the event, said that Sunday's play created such enthusiasm among the membership that another will be held in the near future.

A total of 40 players competed in the Sunday feature and following the matches the entire group remained in the clubhouse to enjoy Twaalfskill's attractive dinner menu.

Mrs. Charles Vogel and Al Flanagan cracked par in the net division with a 69. They had 96 gross and 27 handicap.

The results:

Low Gross — Mrs. Cennith O'Reilly and Robert Herzog, 44-48-92.

Low Net—Mrs. Burt MacFadden-Ed Remmert, 91-24-67.

Mrs. J. H. Tremper-Gus Brinnier, 101-33-68.

Former Baseball Ace Pounds 716 Singles

A former capital district professional star who now serves as a New York Yankee baseball scout rolled the top singles score in the state tournament's minor events division over the weekend.

Big Tom Kane, of the noted Kane brothers—Tom, Willie and "Shine," a star of pre-war vintage in Troy and Albany area, came up with a 715 blast and a 278 solo.

Kane, a 168-average trundler, pounded an actual score of 643 with solos of 180, 185 and 278 for 643 and had a 72-pin handicap pull. The 278 is the second highest rolled in the singles. The record of 290 was set by Austin Wynkoop of Middletown early in the meet.

The tall, bespectacled kegler opened his big game with a spare and then fired nine strikes in a row. He bowls twice a week in Albany leagues and has had about 10 years experience on the polished lanes.

Robert Woodhams of Canandaigua equalled Kane's total with a 661 net and 54-pin handicap. He packed a 269 solo in the middle set, while J. Bernat of Niagara Falls knocked off 699 gross and E. Hausrath, Buffalo, had 697.

2nd in Doubles

A Mt. Vernon doubles combine, veteran Art Holscher and Andy Viviano, rolled into second place in the net division with a 1297. The current leaders are Bill Hansly and John Bomba with a 1346 score. Holscher had a net 680 and Viviano 617.

Four other tandems rolled into the "1300" bracket. Mike Donardo and Orville Vanscooter of Hornell shot 1341 and Jim Ricchio and Mike Cerretto of Rochester had 1331. Ricchio distinguished himself with a 1980-plus total in the all-events.

J. DiModica and L. Falzone of Rochester cracked 1325 and Henry Pape, Westchester county bowling proprietor, and W. Bruhnkhe, had 1311.

One Week From End of Tourney Fromer's 3249 Looks Pretty Good

Only minor changes were created on the standing board in the state bowling tournament over the week-end and 130 teams and one week away from the finale, the Fromer Amoco Petroleum five of Kingston appears to be in line for a $1500 prize and the first state championships ever won by a local squad.

Nobody came even close to Fromer's 3249 which has been riding in first place since April 3.

The only five man change came in eighth position when Universal Liquors of Rochester displaced Hymes Shoes with a 3196 block. The Kodak City trundlers shot 2794 net and had 402 pins handicap. Hymes' 3193 is now in 9th place.

Saturday and Sunday were good scoring days, with a total of seven series of 3100 or better and 13 over 3000, with another at 2999. All these scores finished well in the prize list. The low-in-the money total for the team event has now reached about 2930, ten pins higher than the final count at Elmira last year.

Name Teams Fail

Name teams didn't fare so well in the weekend shooting, with Mt. Vernon, Syracuse and Rochester quintets finishing out of the money.

Rago's Oxfords of Rochester, the 1951 champions failed in their bid to repeat as gross kingpins but their 2988 put them in the money. They had 2589 actual and 399 handicap.

Everybody's Market No. 2 of Niagara Falls, the 1950 net champions, sloughed off to 2940 gross and may just make it.

Quinzi Shoots 640

John Quinzi's Rochester Bowling Center, a 979 powerhouse, finished just out of the money, but the 1951 Petersen Classic winner did his share with a 640 in the anchor slot. He reeled off games of 197, 205 and 238. Anthony Forgione posted 609 for the upstaters who had 2868 actual and 57 pins handicap.

Pastime A. C., a Syracuse power, fell to 2716 net and 2887 gross.

The five-man shooting winds up next Sunday night at the Bowlodrome, with the 55-day marathon winding up on Monday with the singles and doubles at the Bowlatorium.

Officials Have It a Bit Rough

State and local bowling officials didn't fare too well in the state tournament over the weekend.

Emmanuel Colao, the new president of the Kingston Bowling Association, was so overcome by the weight of his new duties that he dipped to a 392 in the doubles with his partner, J. Kenneth Powell. Mannie found the going a little better for 450 in the singles.

Substitute Leads WIBC Singles Division

St. Louis, May 19 (AP)—Lorene Craig entered the Women's International Bowling congress as a last-minute substitute, then turned in the fourth highest singles socer in the tournament's history—a 672.

Mrs. Craig, 38, had games of 237, 213 and 222, surpassing the former leading score of 666, bowled by Phyliss Notaro of Angola, N. Y., May 2.

She said she hadn't had much time to practice before getting a call from the Muehlebach Beers of Kansas City to fill in for a regular unable to make the trip here.

Cleveland Kegler Rolls 275 in ABC

Milwaukee, May 19 (AP) — Yesterday was one of those good shooting days in the American Bowling Congress tournament but scores were not on the sensational side.

There was only one real thrill and that came in the doubles. Lawrence Drotleff, Cleveland pin spiller, toppled 275 sticks to fall just four pins short of tying the high single game record in that division.

Samuel Garber, Canton, O., turned in the best all around shooting by averaging 206.2 in the all events with 1,856. He had consistent series of 616 in team, 614 in doubles and 626 in singles.

ALL-ROUND—Bob Mathias put the shot 51 feet 2½ inches. Mathias hurled the javelin 189 feet 1⅛ inches. The world record-holder in the decathlon negotiated the high hurdles in 14.3, threw the discus 173 feet 4 inches. (NEA)

Chez Emile Blanks Jones Dairy, 6-0, on Jack Watzka's 2-Hitter

1951 Champions Off To Flying Start

The low-hit and shutout epidemic that is sweeping through the major leagues this spring picked on the City Baseball League's 1952 opener Sunday.

Big Jack Watzka, the Flatbush Fusileer who has spent years toiling with second division clubs in the city circuit, came up with a sparkling two-hit, 6 to 0, shutout triumph for Chez Emile over Jones Dairy in the wind-swept inaugural at the Athletic Field.

Until he was forced to retire because of a stiff shoulder in the seventh, the fireballing right hander had permitted only two widely scattered singles to Bob Graves and Charlie Neff.

Opening day ceremonies included brief speeches by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly, the 1951 president who is now serving as vice-president; President Ed Murphy and Bob Umpleby, KAA president who is director of Little League baseball in Kingston.

Among the other celebrities introduced by Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor, who was the master of ceremonies, included past President Jack Dawkins and Warren Smith, Secretary Robert Steeger; Joe Chick, collector, and the umpiring staff of Bill Schwab, Jack Rivenberg and Francis Stauble.

Good Turnout

The opening crowd was slow in arriving but by the middle of the contest a large turnout was sprawled in the bleachers and along the sidelines. The weather for the most part was sunny but a bit on the windy side and high popups and fly balls created a problem for the fielders.

Watzka needed relief for one putout by southpaw Bud Swarthoute en route to his decision over the all-time City League winning pitcher, Tommy Fisher. He walked five.

Dairymen Collapse

Fisher, who went the route while yielding seven hits and fanning seven, battled Big Jack on even terms for three innings but a collapsible defense and timely blows by Manager Joe Hoffman's Chezzies gave the 1951 champions seven runs in the next three innings.

Bob Graves, the Jones Dairy second sacker, committed three successive errors during Chez Emile's three-run fifth inning and the Dairymen's total mounted to seven before the game ended, an unprecedented total for a traditionally stout defensive club. Chezzies, on the other hand, backed Watzka with flawless support.

Fisher had six strikeouts in the first three frames but the Chezzies climbed on him for two quick runs in the fourth on Bob Gorsline's single, Bud Scheffel's double and Bob Olen's triple.

Sonny Barnes' double, three bobbles by Graves and a double steal on which Joe Norton scored were the principal ingredients in Chez Emile's three-run fifth. The sixth run had an authentic touch as the result of Barnes' second solo hit, a sacrifice by Watzka and Norton's run scoring single.

Barnes, the Chez Emile third baseman, was the only player with two hits—a single and double.

He chalked up his 17th straight victory and ran his earnings to $197,122 Saturday in winning the $18,000 Mount Vernon free-for-all trot at the Yonkers Raceway's Grand Circuit meeting.

With Benny Schue handling the reins, Pronto trotted the mile in 2:06 4/5. He paid $2.50 for $2.

Pete Fuller Is In Olympic Boxing

Pete Fuller of Boston, the heavyweight star who gave Coley Wallace a great fight before the latter turned pro in 1949, is the latest mittslinger to enter the Eastern Olympic boxing tourney scheduled for Hawkins Stadium, May 26 and 27, under the co-sponsorship of the Adirondack AAU and the Albany Elks Club.

He is captain of wrestling at Harvard University but made his mark as a boxer. He boasts the New England AAU championship and was runner-up in the New York Golden Gloves tourney.

Bill Downing, the key man in Boston amateur boxing circles, considers Fuller one of the best boys he is grooming for the two-day Albany fisticuff carnival. Downing already has sent word to Ben Becker, tourney director, he will have a full team on hand for the Eastern meet.

Becker announced last night that Joe Hudson of Albany, former Adirondack AAU Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, also will seek honors in the Eastern Olympic trials.

Hudson, who won the 1951 Adirondack AAU crown but lost out to Bob Middleton of Schenectady in the 1952 meet in Odd Fellows Hall, Albany, has been training diligently for the Olympic test. Since his defeat at the hands of Middleton he is more determined than ever to gain an Olympic berth.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The first day of the annual Palm Beach Round Robin golf tournament at plush Wykagyl Country Club at New Rochelle is always a treat for this department.

Last Thursday we missed the usual clinic that precedes the opening of the unique tournament but caught Slammin' Sammy Snead at his best.

There can hardly be a greater treat in sports than watching a topnotcher at his peak. The White Sulphur Springs great powdered a five-under-par 67 for a plus-22 point lead.

The round robin scoring system devised by Elmer Ward for the Palm Beach play is rather intricate, but suffice to say that Sambo picked up his points at the expense of three of the world's finest—Byron "Lord" Nelson, Roberto DiVincenzo, the Argentine who captured the 1951 Palm Peach, and Max Faulkner, the 1951 British Open king.

The next time out Snead fired a 6-under 66 and followed with a 71 to spreadeagle the field at the 54-hole mark. Sam's putter is hot and he's a good bet to capture his first U. S. Open in June. That's the only major golf crown that has eluded him. Five times he has fluffed it on the last round, once on the last hole with a horrendous eight, when a five would have won.

You'll get no argument if you rate Ben Hogan a better golfer than Snead—the very best since Byron Nelson went into semi-retirement—but for all-round class and color Snead is still the mob's favorite. Hogan is flat, colorless, a merciless automaton on the fairways. He has no truck with the gallery and is a picture of stern concentration from the first tee to the last putt.

Maybe it's because Snead has been haunted by that great human frailty—missing short putts in crucial moments—that endears him to the gallery. He has a warm, human quality about him. He has the world's finest swing, still hits yards ahead of the field for distance and accuracy, and is the top man in spectator appeal department.

• The Nineteenth Hole:

Alex Gerlak can't take the time off from his Twaalfskill duties to compete in the PGA Nationals at Louisville, but it's nice to see the "old pro" leading the Northeastern PGA qualifiers. Several years ago when the Twaalfskill veteran was the terror of the Northeastern fairways, he made frequent visits to the PGA and U. S. Open. He led the first-day qualifying field at Pinehurst and in his first singles encounter had Denny Shute five-down at the end of nine. Shute made a great rally to edge Alex 1-up and later went on to capture the U. S. Open. Hank Kowal, the sweet swinger of the Dutchess Country Club tied for the qualifying medal with a 74 in the Walter J. Travis Memorial Tournament at Garden City. The Long Island course is regarded as one of the world's finest tests of golf. And nearby West Point's layout is described by some experts as the world's toughest. The first time Alex Gerlak saw the hilly layout which sprawls near the entrance gate at the Academy he quipped: "The safest way to play this course is to drive with your putter."

• Putt and Take Department:

Albany's Billy Shields, the current New York State Amateur champion, will make a bid for the British Amateur title in the six-day tournament that opens on May 26 at Prestwick, Scotland. Shields says he expects to spend a month in Europe and will compete in the French Amateur, if his entry is accepted. Although this is Shields' first try at the British title, he has competed in four U. S. Amateurs, once reaching the quarter-finals. Billy Maxwell, the U. S. Amateur king from Odessa, Tex., is the same lad who eliminated Leon Randall from the National Jaycee tournament in Houston a few years ago. If Maxwell cops the British Amateur, he will become the fifth swinger to hold the U. S. and British Amateur crowns simultaneously. Bobby Jones swept both tournaments in 1930, the year of his fabulous "Grand Slam." He won the Open titles of both countries that year, too. Lawson Little won both in 1931 and Jerome Travers won the American in 1903 and the British in the spring of 1904.

An interesting sidelight on Wykagyl Country Club is that the course was built by the late Lawrence Van Etten of Kingston and with Twaalfskill ranks as one of the oldest in the country.

Mrs. Cennith O'Reilly, of hole-in-one fame, and Robert Herzog, dealer in hardware, teamed up for a 92 to capture low gross honors in the Twaalfskill Club's first 2-ball mixed foursome competition of the season Sunday.

They shot an outgoing 44 and had 48 on the back turn.

Mrs. Burt MacFadden and Ed Remmert used a 24-stroke handicap to good advantage in posting the top net score of 67. They had a gross score of 91.

The field was the largest in history for a 2-ball mixed foursome at the Twaalfskill links. Chairman Floyd Flint and Mrs. William Kelly, chairmen of the event, said that Sunday's play created such enthusiasm among the membership that another will be held in the near future.

A total of 40 players competed in the Sunday feature and following the matches the entire group remained in the clubhouse to enjoy Twaalfskill's attractive dinner menu.

Mrs. Charles Vogel and Al Flanagan cracked par in the net division with a 69. They had 96 gross and 27 handicap.

The results:

Low Gross — Mrs. Cennith O'Reilly and Robert Herzog, 44-48-92.

Low Net—Mrs. Burt MacFadden-Ed Remmert, 91-24-67.

Mrs. J. H. Tremper-Gus Brinnier, 101-33-68.

Former Baseball Ace Pounds 716 Singles

A former capital district professional star who now serves as a New York Yankee baseball scout rolled the top singles score in the state tournament's minor events division over the weekend.

Big Tom Kane, of the noted Kane brothers—Tom, Willie and "Shine," a star of pre-war vintage in Troy and Albany area, came up with a 715 blast and a 278 solo.

Kane, a 168-average trundler, pounded an actual score of 643 with solos of 180, 185 and 278 for 643 and had a 72-pin handicap pull. The 278 is the second highest rolled in the singles. The record of 290 was set by Austin Wynkoop of Middletown early in the meet.

The tall, bespectacled kegler opened his big game with a spare and then fired nine strikes in a row. He bowls twice a week in Albany leagues and has had about 10 years experience on the polished lanes.

Robert Woodhams of Canandaigua equalled Kane's total with a 661 net and 54-pin handicap. He packed a 269 solo in the middle set, while J. Bernat of Niagara Falls knocked off 699 gross and E. Hausrath, Buffalo, had 697.

2nd in Doubles

A Mt. Vernon doubles combine, veteran Art Holscher and Andy Viviano, rolled into second place in the net division with a 1297. The current leaders are Bill Hansly and John Bomba with a 1346 score. Holscher had a net 680 and Viviano 617.

Four other tandems rolled into the "1300" bracket. Mike Donardo and Orville Vanscooter of Hornell shot 1341 and Jim Ricchio and Mike Cerretto of Rochester had 1331. Ricchio distinguished himself with a 1980-plus total in the all-events.

J. DiModica and L. Falzone of Rochester cracked 1325 and Henry Pape, Westchester county bowling proprietor, and W. Bruhnkhe, had 1311.

One Week From End of Tourney Fromer's 3249 Looks Pretty Good

Only minor changes were created on the standing board in the state bowling tournament over the week-end and 130 teams and one week away from the finale, the Fromer Amoco Petroleum five of Kingston appears to be in line for a $1500 prize and the first state championships ever won by a local squad.

Nobody came even close to Fromer's 3249 which has been riding in first place since April 3.

The only five man change came in eighth position when Universal Liquors of Rochester displaced Hymes Shoes with a 3196 block. The Kodak City trundlers shot 2794 net and had 402 pins handicap. Hymes' 3193 is now in 9th place.

Saturday and Sunday were good scoring days, with a total of seven series of 3100 or better and 13 over 3000, with another at 2999. All these scores finished well in the prize list. The low-in-the money total for the team event has now reached about 2930, ten pins higher than the final count at Elmira last year.

Name Teams Fail

Name teams didn't fare so well in the weekend shooting, with Mt. Vernon, Syracuse and Rochester quintets finishing out of the money.

Rago's Oxfords of Rochester, the 1951 champions failed in their bid to repeat as gross kingpins but their 2988 put them in the money. They had 2589 actual and 399 handicap.

Everybody's Market No. 2 of Niagara Falls, the 1950 net champions, sloughed off to 2940 gross and may just make it.

Quinzi Shoots 640

John Quinzi's Rochester Bowling Center, a 979 powerhouse, finished just out of the money, but the 1951 Petersen Classic winner did his share with a 640 in the anchor slot. He reeled off games of 197, 205 and 238. Anthony Forgione posted 609 for the upstaters who had 2868 actual and 57 pins handicap.

Pastime A. C., a Syracuse power, fell to 2716 net and 2887 gross.

The five-man shooting winds up next Sunday night at the Bowlodrome, with the 55-day marathon winding up on Monday with the singles and doubles at the Bowlatorium.

Officials Have It a Bit Rough

State and local bowling officials didn't fare too well in the state tournament over the weekend.

Emmanuel Colao, the new president of the Kingston Bowling Association, was so overcome by the weight of his new duties that he dipped to a 392 in the doubles with his partner, J. Kenneth Powell. Mannie found the going a little better for 450 in the singles.

Substitute Leads WIBC Singles Division

St. Louis, May 19 (AP)—Lorene Craig entered the Women's International Bowling congress as a last-minute substitute, then turned in the fourth highest singles socer in the tournament's history—a 672.

Mrs. Craig, 38, had games of 237, 213 and 222, surpassing the former leading score of 666, bowled by Phyliss Notaro of Angola, N. Y., May 2.

She said she hadn't had much time to practice before getting a call from the Muehlebach Beers of Kansas City to fill in for a regular unable to make the trip here.

Cleveland Kegler Rolls 275 in ABC

Milwaukee, May 19 (AP) — Yesterday was one of those good shooting days in the American Bowling Congress tournament but scores were not on the sensational side.

There was only one real thrill and that came in the doubles. Lawrence Drotleff, Cleveland pin spiller, toppled 275 sticks to fall just four pins short of tying the high single game record in that division.

Samuel Garber, Canton, O., turned in the best all around shooting by averaging 206.2 in the all events with 1,856. He had consistent series of 616 in team, 614 in doubles and 626 in singles.

ALL-ROUND—Bob Mathias put the shot 51 feet 2½ inches. Mathias hurled the javelin 189 feet 1⅝ inches. The world record-holder in the decathlon negotiated the high hurdles in 14.3, threw the discus 173 feet 4 inches. (NEA)

Bobby Shantz and Gerry Staley Prove Standings Don't Hurt Them

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Little Bobby Shantz and Big Gerry Staley, a pair of first-rate pitchers with second division teams, are setting a terrific pace for the other 164 major league hurlers.

Shantz, the 5-7 Philadelphia Athletics' southpaw, yesterday became the first American League pitcher to win six games as he shut out the Cleveland Indians, 2-0. Staley, six-foot St. Louis Cardinals' righthander, became the National League's first seven-game winner as he foiled the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-3.

The 26-year-old Shantz now owns more than half of the seventh-place Athletics' 11 triumphs. Staley, two years older, has registered exactly half of the fifth place Cardinals' 14 victories.

Although 13 pitchers won 20 or more games last year, neither Shantz nor Staley were among them. Bobby bagged 18 wins in 1951 and Staley notched 19. They appear to be headed for their first 20-game seasons in the big leagues.

Shantz surrendered only three hits to achieve his first shutout in the opener of the doubleheader at Cleveland. The Indians came back in the nightcap to register a shutout victory of their own as Mike Garcia blanked the A's, 6-0, despite yielding nine hits. In the opener, Bob Feller was the Cleveland loser, yielding homers to Eddie Joost and Gus Zernial.

Indians Hold Lead

The Indians retained their 2½-game lead in the American League as the second-place Washington Senators split their twin bill with the Chicago White Sox. A bases-loaded single by Ray Coleman produced two sixth-inning runs and gave the White Sox a 6-4 victory after Lou Sleater had pitched the Senators to a 2-1 triumph over Saul Rogovin in the opener.

Boston's Red Sox remained in third place with a 7-4 victory over Detroit while the New York Yankees and St. Louis Browns divided a doubleheader. Vic Raschi hurled a five-hit, 8-1 triumph for New York after the Browns had eked out a 4-3 decision in the first game.

Brooklyn took undisputed possession of first place in the National League, thrashing the Chicago Cubs, 7-2, as the New York Giants were kept idle because of rain. The Giants were scheduled to play two games with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Rain also washed away the scheduled twin bill between the Cincinnati Reds and Braves in Boston.

Roe Wins Fourth

Brooklyn collected only four hits but three Bruin hurlers handed out 10 free passes and hit two batters to set up all Brooklyn runs. Unbeaten Preacher Roe helped win his fourth game with a pair of run-scoring singles.

Dick Sisler, former Philly, helped the Cards nip his former mates by belting in two runs with a pair of singles. Staley had a 4-0 lead until the ninth, when Willie Jones shelled him from the mound with a three-run homer.

Veteran Vern Stephens, starting at shortstop for the first time since 1950, smashed a three-run homer, scored twice, was the middle man in two double plays, and handled nine chances flawlessly in Boston's win over Detroit.

Home runs by Bob Cerv, Irv Noren and Gil McDougald made Raschi's task easier as the Yankee righthander handled his first complete game of the season for this third victory. A pair of former Yankees — Clint Courtney and Duane Pillette — won the opener for the Browns. Courtney's single with two out and the bases loaded in the ninth snapped a 3-3 tie and gave Pillette his fourth win.

Goshen—Beaten three times in 1951 by Star's Pride, Pronto Don is expected to be ready when the pair meet in the $10,000 Titan Free-for-All Trot here at Historic Track on Friday, July 4.

The Historic meeting will be the first of the year for the two top performers. Pronto Don, voted the Horse of the Year in 1951, has won 14 races in a row since losing to Star's Pride.

The Hayes Fair Acres entry from Du Quoin, Ill., opened the 1952 campaign with four victories at Santa Anita. Pronto Don topped this impressive start by taking the $30,650 Golden West Trot in effortless fashion.

Pronto Don has won $192,622 to date, moving within $60,000 of the all-time winning mark established by the now retired Proximity. Pronto Don is now at Yonkers where he will race in a pair of $10,000 races before moving on to Westbury, L. I. and then to Historic Track.

Wins Midget Plane Race

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 19 (AP)—Bill Falck, 39, of Warwick, N. Y., won the midget plane racing crown yesterday at 186.95 miles per hour to take $1,000 in the Tennessee Products Cup races. A dark-horse contender, Falck nosed out the consistent national champion, Steve Wittman of Oshkosh, Wis. Wittman was a close second in the climax of National Pilots Air Meet and Races with 186.79 miles per hour. Wittman picked up $800.

LATEST METHOD FOR ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION

YMCA Life Saving Program Class of 28 Learning New Respiration Method

The YMCA Life Saving program now in operation at the Y pool has enrolled 28 boys and girls, Lou Schafer said today.

The new so-called "Holger-Nielson" artificial respiration method is being taught the class. Schafer pointed out that this new technique will sometimes be referred to as the "back pressure" or "arm lift" method of artificial repiration.

Schafer described the method as follows:

"The operator kneels on one knee at the head of the patient. The operator places his hands on the lower part of the shoulder blades, with the heel of his hands just below a line running between the armpits. Fingers and thumbs pointing downward and outward, with the main pressure being placed on the palms and heels of the hands.

The operator rocks forward and allows the weight of the upper part of his body to exert low, steady even pressure downward upon his hands. This forces air out of the victim's lungs. Arms are straight and pressure is exerted downward. The operator now draws the victim's arms upward and toward himself. Operator must keep elbows straight. He rocks backward and the victim's arms are drawn toward him. He now lays down the victim's arms, thereby completing the cycle. This final arm lift expands the chest by pulling on the chest muscles and relieving weight on the chest. This cycle must be repeated 12 to 15 times a minute at a steady rate. The compression and expansion phases should occupy an equal amount of time.

Schafer has had two special instruction periods from state YMCA swimming experts in this new method of artificial respiration. Besides this work in the life saving course, the boys and girls are taught 20 different skills in all the required positions in the water.

Each swimmer has had 20 hours of practical water safety work along with 10 hours of theory. Starting today and finishing on May 26, all members of the class will be given their final tests.

All swimmers who pass the test will receive National YMCA swimming cards and the new national swimming emblem for their bathing suits. These YMCA life saving and water safety emblems will be worn in this area for the first time.

Snead Staves Off Middlecoff Rally To Squeeze Through in Palm Beach

New Rochelle, N. Y., May 19 (AP)—Since January, Sam Snead has won four golf tournaments, failed to win two others only because of penalties, and has collected something over $13,000 in prize money. But he still isn't satisfied with his playing.

Snead, apparently unimpressed by his close squeak in the dramatic finish of the $15,000 round-robin tournament at Wykagyl yesterday, pocketed the winners $3,000 check and complained:

"This was the worst I've ever played to win a tournament. I don't mean any disrespect to the others, but if I had caught different pairings, it might have been different. I didn't drive very well and my irons weren't very good. I did make some wonderful recovery shots that gave me short putts."

If Snead was off his game this week, the galleries didn't know it. For five rounds he was 12 strokes under par for the hilly 6,553-yard Wykagyl course, with a 90-hole total of 348.

While Sam "slipped" to a pair of par 72's—his worst scores of the tournament—Carry Middlecoff came through with a 64 and 69 on the last two rounds to equal Sam's 348 total.

Mangrum Third

The 64 set a course record, which Lloyd Mangrum equalled yesterday to capture third place.

Under the round-robin scoring system, which related each day's scores to those of other members of the same foursome, the final standing was Snead plus 57, Middlecoff 55, Mangrum 34, Claude Harmon 21 and Jim Ferrier 17. From there they ranged down to minus 63 for British Open champion Max Faulkner.

The drama of the tournament was packed into the final round when Middlecoff, starting 14 points behind Snead, whittled Sam's point margin to two coming up to the last hole—a 487-yard, par five affair. Snead whacked his second shot to the green and got down for a birdie four. Middlecoff, off in the rough in a pile of beer cans, chipped to about ten feet from the pin and sank his putt, but he couldn't gain a point.

Arcaro Called Turn On Preakness Winner

Baltimore, May 19 (AP)—Eddie Arcaro again proved himself a keen judge by saying a month before the Preakness "Blue Man must be quite a horse."

The ace jockey had the turf world agreeing with him today after the way Blue Man took Saturday's 76th Preakness in a breeze. Unfortunately, for Arcaro, he was on one of the nine others which Blue Man passed like they were statues in the last three-sixteenths of a mile.

It was the consensus that if trainer Woody Stephens can keep the son of Blue Swords healthy the search for the king of the 3-year-olds for more than a day may be over.

So far this year keeping a 3-year-old fit has turned out to be as important as having a fast horse. They've been dropping like flies by the wayside.

'Ghost' Ship Found

Seattle, May 19 (AP)—A ghost-like fishing vessel—its load of fish partially decomposed and a cold cup of coffee in its cabin—was found by the coast guard yesterday running in circles about three miles off the Washington coast. No one was aboard. The coast guard identified the vessel as the 37-foot Terrine. The owner of the craft, Richard H. Dill of Port Angeles, was presumed to have fallen overboard and drowned. Judging from the decomposition of the fish, Dill was believed to have been lost overboard Saturday. The vessel's "iron mike" (automatic pilot) had been set and the engine was running full when coast guardsmen boarded the Terrine.

$13,420 Reported In YMCA Drive

James Toben reports $13,420 collected in the Y.M.C.A. drive. He is hopeful that the 32 workers who have not reported will do so by this evening.

He declares that the 100 volunteers in the campaign can see a good finish in sight if all will cover the cards assigned. The drive will continue until a complete canvass is made.

The Women's Auxiliary concluded its series of suppers for the Industrial Management Club Thursday. A baked ham menu was served 75 men. The "Y" kitchen has now been taken over by the maintenance crew of the "Y" for renovation. The work was made possible by the Auxiliary members under their President, Mrs. George H. DuBois.

One of the latest cooperative ventures of the "Y" is the arranging of some special dormitory rooms for the delegates coming to the Christian Endeavor Convention.

Playing cards are believed to have come from Asia, but some authorities believe that the Egyptians invented them.

Bobby Shantz and Gerry Staley Prove Standings Don't Hurt Them

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Little Bobby Shantz and Big Gerry Staley, a pair of first-rate pitchers with second division teams, are setting a terrific pace for the other 164 major league hurlers.

Shantz, the 5-7 Philadelphia Athletics' southpaw, yesterday became the first American League pitcher to win six games as he shut out the Cleveland Indians, 2-0. Staley, six-foot St. Louis Cardinals' righthander, became the National League's first seven-game winner as he foiled the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-3.

The 26-year-old Shantz now owns more than half of the seventh-place Athletics' 11 triumphs. Staley, two years older, has registered exactly half of the fifth place Cardinals' 14 victories.

Although 13 pitchers won 20 or more games last year, neither Shantz nor Staley were among them. Bobby bagged 18 wins in 1951 and Staley notched 19. They appear to be headed for their first 20-game seasons in the big leagues.

Shantz surrendered only three hits to achieve his first shutout in the opener of the doubleheader at Cleveland. The Indians came back in the nightcap to register a shutout victory of their own as Mike Garcia blanked the A's, 6-0, despite yielding nine hits. In the opener, Bob Feller was the Cleveland loser, yielding homers to Eddie Joost and Gus Zernial.

Indians Hold Lead

The Indians retained their 2½-game lead in the American League as the second-place Washington Senators split their twin bill with the Chicago White Sox. A bases-loaded single by Ray Coleman produced two sixth-inning runs and gave the White Sox a 6-4 victory after Lou Sleater had pitched the Senators to a 2-1 triumph over Saul Rogovin in the opener.

Boston's Red Sox remained in third place with a 7-4 victory over Detroit while the New York Yankees and St. Louis Browns divided a doubleheader. Vic Raschi hurled a five-hit, 8-1 triumph for New York after the Browns had eked out a 4-3 decision in the first game.

Brooklyn took undisputed possession of first place in the National League, thrashing the Chicago Cubs, 7-2, as the New York Giants were kept idle because of rain. The Giants were scheduled to play two games with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Rain also washed away the scheduled twin bill between the Cincinnati Reds and Braves in Boston.

Roe Wins Fourth

Brooklyn collected only four hits but three Bruin hurlers handed out 10 free passes and hit two batters to set up all Brooklyn runs. Unbeaten Preacher Roe helped win his fourth game with a pair of run-scoring singles.

Dick Sisler, former Philly, helped the Cards nip his former mates by belting in two runs with a pair of singles. Staley had a 4-0 lead until the ninth, when Willie Jones shelled him from the mound with a three-run homer.

Veteran Vern Stephens, starting at shortstop for the first time since 1950, smashed a three-run homer, scored twice, was the middle man in two double plays, and handled nine chances flawlessly in Boston's win over Detroit.

Home runs by Bob Cerv, Irv Noren and Gil McDougald made Raschi's task easier as the Yankee righthander handled his first complete game of the season for this third victory. A pair of former Yankees — Clint Courtney and Duane Pillette — won the opener for the Browns. Courtney's single with two out and the bases loaded in the ninth snapped a 3-3 tie and gave Pillette his fourth win.

Harness Rivalry Resumes in Goshen

Goshen—Beaten three times in 1951 by Star's Pride, Pronto Don is expected to be ready when the pair meet in the $10,000 Titan Free-for-All Trot here at Historic Track on Friday, July 4.

The Historic meeting will be the first of the year for the two top performers. Pronto Don, voted the Horse of the Year in 1951, has won 14 races in a row since losing to Star's Pride.

The Hayes Fair Acres entry from Du Quoin, Ill., opened the 1952 campaign with four victories at Santa Anita. Pronto Don topped this impressive start by taking the $30,650 Golden West Trot in effortless fashion.

Pronto Don has won $192,622 to date, moving within $60,000 of the all-time winning mark established by the now retired Proximity. Pronto Don is now at Yonkers where he will race in a pair of $10,000 races before moving on to Westbury, L. I. and then to Historic Track.

LATEST METHOD FOR ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION

YMCA Life Saving Program Class of 28 Learning New Respiration Method

The YMCA Life Saving program now in operation at the Y pool has enrolled 28 boys and girls, Lou Schafer said today.

The new so-called "Holger-Nielson" artificial respiration method is being taught the class. Schafer pointed out that this new technique will sometimes be referred to as the "back pressure" or "arm lift" method of artificial repiration.

Schafer described the method as follows:

"The operator kneels on one knee at the head of the patient. The operator places his hands on the lower part of the shoulder blades, with the heel of his hands just below a line running between the armpits. Fingers and thumbs pointing downward and outward, with the main pressure being placed on the palms and heels of the hands.

The operator rocks forward and allows the weight of the upper part of his body to exert low, steady even pressure downward upon his hands. This forces air out of the victim's lungs. Arms are straight and pressure is exerted downward. The operator now draws the victim's arms upward and toward himself. Operator must keep elbows straight. He rocks backward and the victim's arms are drawn toward him. He now lays down the victim's arms, thereby completing the cycle. This final arm lift expands the chest by pulling on the chest muscles and relieving weight on the chest. This cycle must be repeated 12 to 15 times a minute at a steady rate. The compression and expansion phases should occupy an equal amount of time.

Schafer has had two special instruction periods from state YMCA swimming experts in this new method of artificial respiration. Besides this work in the life saving course, the boys and girls are taught 20 different skills in all the required positions in the water.

Each swimmer has had 20 hours of practical water safety work along with 10 hours of theory. Starting today and finishing on May 26, all members of the class will be given their final tests.

All swimmers who pass the test will receive National YMCA swimming cards and the new national swimming emblem for their bathing suits. These YMCA life saving and water safety emblems will be worn in this area for the first time.

Snead Staves Off Middlecoff Rally To Squeeze Through in Palm Beach

New Rochelle, N. Y., May 19 (AP)—Since January, Sam Snead has won four golf tournaments, failed to win two others only because of penalties, and has collected something over $13,000 in prize money. But he still isn't satisfied with his playing.

Snead, apparently unimpressed by his close squeak in the dramatic finish of the $15,000 round-robin tournament at Wykagyl yesterday, pocketed the winners $3,000 check and complained:

"This was the worst I've ever played to win a tournament. I don't mean any disrespect to the others, but if I had caught different pairings, it might have been different. I didn't drive very well and my irons weren't very good. I did make some wonderful recovery shots that gave me short putts."

If Snead was off his game this week, the galleries didn't know it. For five rounds he was 12 strokes under par for the hilly 6,553-yard Wykagyl course, with a 90-hole total of 348.

While Sam "slipped" to a pair of par 72's—his worst scores of the tournament—Carry Middlecoff came through with a 64 and 69 on the last two rounds to equal Sam's 348 total.

Mangrum Third

The 64 set a course record, which Lloyd Mangrum equalled yesterday to capture third place.

Under the round-robin scoring system, which related each day's scores to those of other members of the same foursome, the final standing was Snead plus 57, Middlecoff 55, Mangrum 34, Claude Harmon 21 and Jim Ferrier 17. From there they ranged down to minus 63 for British Open champion Max Faulkner.

The drama of the tournament was packed into the final round when Middlecoff, starting 14 points behind Snead, whittled Sam's point margin to two coming up to the last hole—a 487-yard, par five affair. Snead whacked his second shot to the green and got down for a birdie four. Middlecoff, off in the rough in a pile of beer cans, chipped to about ten feet from the pin and sank his putt, but he couldn't gain a point.

Arcaro Called Turn On Preakness Winner

Baltimore, May 19 (AP)—Eddie Arcaro again proved himself a keen judge by saying a month before the Preakness "Blue Man must be quite a horse."

The ace jockey had the turf world agreeing with him today after the way Blue Man took Saturday's 76th Preakness in a breeze. Unfortunately, for Arcaro, he was on one of the nine others which Blue Man passed like they were statues in the last three-sixteenths of a mile.

It was the consensus that if trainer Woody Stephens can keep the son of Blue Swords healthy the search for the king of the 3-year-olds for more than a day may be over.

So far this year keeping a 3-year-old fit has turned out to be as important as having a fast horse. They've been dropping like flies by the wayside.

'Ghost' Ship Found

Seattle, May 19 (AP)—A ghost-like fishing vessel—its load of fish partially decomposed and a cold cup of coffee in its cabin—was found by the coast guard yesterday running in circles about three miles off the Washington coast. No one was aboard. The coast guard identified the vessel as the 37-foot Terrine. The owner of the craft, Richard H. Dill of Port Angeles, was presumed to have fallen overboard and drowned. Judging from the decomposition of the fish, Dill was believed to have been lost overboard Saturday. The vessel's "iron mike" (automatic pilot) had been set and the engine was running full when coast guardsmen boarded the Terrine.

$13,420 Reported In YMCA Drive

James Toben reports $13,420 collected in the Y.M.C.A. drive. He is hopeful that the 32 workers who have not reported will do so by this evening.

He declares that the 100 volunteers in the campaign can see a good finish in sight if all will cover the cards assigned. The drive will continue until a complete canvass is made.

The Women's Auxiliary concluded its series of suppers for the Industrial Management Club Thursday. A baked ham menu was served 75 men. The "Y" kitchen has now been taken over by the maintenance crew of the "Y" for renovation. The work was made possible by the Auxiliary members under their President, Mrs. George H. DuBois.

Playing cards are believed to have come from Asia, but some authorities believe that the Egyptians invented them.

Free Radio Messages Can Be Sent Overseas

Persons who would like to send messages to servicemen, either in this country or overseas, may avail themselves of the Air Force Military Amateur Radio Service (MARS), it was announced today by H. W. Bartsch of 64 Abbey street.

Bartsch, a member of MARS, said that the service operated weekly schedules with Mitchel, Stewart and other air bases on Air Force Radio frequencies. The MARS radio branch handles free messages from relatives, kin and neighbors, through the enlisted MARS radio amateur members, he stated. Those interested may telephone Bartsch at 6078.

Two Held in Jungles

Miami, Fla., May 19 (AP)—Grim drama was being enacted deep in the Brazilian jungles today where a U. S. civilian aviation investigator and a Brazilian Air Force major tried to win freedom from a "wildcat" group of parachutists. Gordon Bennett, chief advisor of the Miami international district office of the CAA, said 30 or more armed parachutists were holding Scott A. Magness, CAA aviation safety advisor from Miami, and Maj. Miranda Correa of the Brazilion Air Force. He said they were being used as hostages in an attempt to gain transportation for the parachutists back to civilization from a helicopter landing strip 3.7 miles from the spot where a Pan American World Airways plane crashed April 29, killing 50 persons, including 10 Americans.

Nurse Confesses

Wetumpka, Ala., May 19 (AP)—A plain, middle-aged nurse napped or sat stolidly in her cell today after cooly confessing to killing a little niece with an arsenic spiked soda pop. The 42-year-old hospital head nurse, Mrs. Earle Dennison, denied, however, that she poisoned another niece whose body, exhumed after two years, showed arsenic traces. Sheriff Lester Holley said Mrs. Dennison confessed in writing yesterday to the death three weeks ago of her two-year-old niece by marriage, Shirley Diann Weldon. Mrs. Dennison, who watched the autopsy on the child in which the doctors found the arsenic traces, was charged with a murder on a warrant sworn out by the parents of both children, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Weldon, a farm couple.

Halpern Is Honored

New York, May 19 (AP)—The Society of the city of New York has named State Senator Seymour Halpern, Queens Republican, as the "outstanding native-born New Yorker for 1951." The society announced yesterday that Halpern had been honored for his part in sponsoring the state inquiry into teen-age narcotics addiction, and for drafting the original legislation that led to the setting up of the State Crime Commission.

Wasp Sails Again

Bayonne, N. J., May 19 (AP)—The aircraft carrier Wasp, seaworthy after a rush repair job on her collision-mangled bow, returned to active duty today. The 34,000-ton flattop left the naval shipyard here and headed for Gravesend Bay in New York to pick up stores and ammunition.

Hussein Argues Through Cage

He is already serving an 18-month sentence for crimes against the government and declared his innocence on grounds that he was in jail when the riots broke out. (AP Photo by radio from Cairo).

Young Styles Fair; No Trace of Cash

Wesley Styles, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Styles of Styles Express Co., was reported in fair condition today at the Benedictine Hospital where he has been undergoing treatment for burns suffered last Wednesday.

The boy's father said today that Wesley was burning brush in the yard of the express company office at 71 Ten Broeck avenue when he threw some gasoline, which he had thought was kerosene, on the fire and it flashed up and burned him about the legs and body.

Styles also said today he had received no further word on the loss of more than $900 in cash and checks, which had apparently been taken from his car while it was parked in his driveway last week. Police are investigating.

Oppose McGranery

Washington, May 19 (AP)—Two Republican senators today challenged the fitness of James P. McGranery to be attorney general. They said his integrity, ability and veracity are "most questionable." Sen. Ferguson of Michigan and Sen. Watkins of Utah filed a minority report disagreeing sharply with the majority vote for confirmation in the Senate Judiciary Committee. The committee had voted 8 to 4 for confirmation of the U. S. district judge from Philadelphia who was appointed six weeks ago to replace J. Howard McGrath as this nation's chief law enforcement officer.

Composer in Trouble

Milwaukee, May 19 (AP)—A 50-year-old composer who won a pardon after he wrote a cantata while a life prisoner in Tennessee was to appear in District Court here today on a vagrancy charge. Frank Grandstaff, whose "Big Springs Cantata" won such praise that Tennessee's governor pardoned him, was arrested Saturday because a woman said he was the man who tried to open the door of her apartment. Grandstaff, who was picked up in a tavern near the apartment house on a description given by the woman, said it was a case of mistaken identity. He denied he had tried to get into the apartment.

Reports Injury

Charles W. Greene, of 160 Clinton avenue, reported a possible head injury following a collision between a truck he was driving and a car operated by Arthur J. Schnall, 23 Liberty street, at Ten-Broeck avenue and Elmendorf street today. The mishap was reported to the police at 12:30 p. m. The truck is owned by Groves Trucking Co., of Port Ewen.

Denver, May 19 (AP)—Company and union representatives returned to bargaining tables today in an effort to reach contract agreements and bring to an end the nation's 20-day oil workers strike. Weekend talks brought numerous settlements in scattered sections of the country.

Fire Damages Esopus Creek Camp

The George Dingee camp near the Esopus creek off the Neighborhood road was damaged by fire early this afternoon.

Ulster Hose Company was called at 1:06 p. m., and the blaze was reported under control about an hour later.

Mrs. W. A. VanValkenburgh, said she saw smoke in the area, thought first it came from a brush fire, and then saw that the Dingee summer camp was burning. She and Mrs. Frank Shields played a garden hose on the blaze before arrival of firemen, who were called by Mrs. Gordon FitzGerald, Mrs. VanValkenburgh's daughter-in-law.

Origin of the fire was undetermined. Mrs. VanValkenburgh said the Dingees had not yet started to occupy the camp for the season.

Special Coronation Beer

London, May 19 (AP)—A firm of British brewers announced today it is ready with a special coronation beer to help the nation celebrate the crowning of its new queen in June, 1953. The coronation brew will be a little more than three times as expensive—five shillings (70 cents) a pint—and three times as strong as the usual lager. The specially potent beer will be released to the public a week before the coronation.

38 More Casualties

Washington, May 19 (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 38 more battle casualties in Korea. A new list (No. 567) reported five killed, 28 wounded, two missing and three injured.

Bartsch, a member of MARS, said that the service operated weekly schedules with Mitchel, Stewart and other air bases on Air Force Radio frequencies. The MARS radio branch handles free messages from relatives, kin and neighbors, through the enlisted MARS radio amateur members, he stated. Those interested may telephone Bartsch at 6078.

Two Held in Jungles

Miami, Fla., May 19 (AP)—Grim drama was being enacted deep in the Brazilian jungles today where a U. S. civilian aviation investigator and a Brazilian Air Force major tried to win freedom from a "wildcat" group of parachutists. Gordon Bennett, chief advisor of the Miami international district office of the CAA, said 30 or more armed parachutists were holding Scott A. Magness, CAA aviation safety advisor from Miami, and Maj. Miranda Correa of the Brazilion Air Force. He said they were being used as hostages in an attempt to gain transportation for the parachutists back to civilization from a helicopter landing strip 3.7 miles from the spot where a Pan American World Airways plane crashed April 29, killing 50 persons, including 10 Americans.

Nurse Confesses

Wetumpka, Ala., May 19 (AP)—A plain, middle-aged nurse napped or sat stolidly in her cell today after cooly confessing to killing a little niece with an arsenic spiked soda pop. The 42-year-old hospital head nurse, Mrs. Earle Dennison, denied, however, that she poisoned another niece whose body, exhumed after two years, showed arsenic traces. Sheriff Lester Holley said Mrs. Dennison confessed in writing yesterday to the death three weeks ago of her two-year-old niece by marriage, Shirley Diann Weldon. Mrs. Dennison, who watched the autopsy on the child in which the doctors found the arsenic traces, was charged with a murder on a warrant sworn out by the parents of both children, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Weldon, a farm couple.

Halpern Is Honored

New York, May 19 (AP)—The Society of the city of New York has named State Senator Seymour Halpern, Queens Republican, as the "outstanding native-born New Yorker for 1951." The society announced yesterday that Halpern had been honored for his part in sponsoring the state inquiry into teen-age narcotics addiction, and for drafting the original legislation that led to the setting up of the State Crime Commission.

Wasp Sails Again

Bayonne, N. J., May 19 (AP)—The aircraft carrier Wasp, seaworthy after a rush repair job on her collision-mangled bow, returned to active duty today. The 34,000-ton flattop left the naval shipyard here and headed for Gravesend Bay in New York to pick up stores and ammunition.

Young Styles Fair; No Trace of Cash

Wesley Styles, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Styles of Styles Express Co., was reported in fair condition today at the Benedictine Hospital where he has been undergoing treatment for burns suffered last Wednesday.

The boy's father said today that Wesley was burning brush in the yard of the express company office at 71 Ten Broeck avenue when he threw some gasoline, which he had thought was kerosene, on the fire and it flashed up and burned him about the legs and body.

Styles also said today he had received no further word on the loss of more than $900 in cash and checks, which had apparently been taken from his car while it was parked in his driveway last week. Police are investigating.

Oppose McGranery

Washington, May 19 (AP)—Two Republican senators today challenged the fitness of James P. McGranery to be attorney general. They said his integrity, ability and veracity are "most questionable." Sen. Ferguson of Michigan and Sen. Watkins of Utah filed a minority report disagreeing sharply with the majority vote for confirmation in the Senate Judiciary Committee. The committee had voted 8 to 4 for confirmation of the U. S. district judge from Philadelphia who was appointed six weeks ago to replace J. Howard McGrath as this nation's chief law enforcement officer.

Composer in Trouble

Milwaukee, May 19 (AP)—A 50-year-old composer who won a pardon after he wrote a cantata while a life prisoner in Tennessee was to appear in District Court here today on a vagrancy charge. Frank Grandstaff, whose "Big Springs Cantata" won such praise that Tennessee's governor pardoned him, was arrested Saturday because a woman said he was the man who tried to open the door of her apartment. Grandstaff, who was picked up in a tavern near the apartment house on a description given by the woman, said it was a case of mistaken identity. He denied he had tried to get into the apartment.

Reports Injury

Charles W. Greene, of 160 Clinton avenue, reported a possible head injury following a collision between a truck he was driving and a car operated by Arthur J. Schnall, 23 Liberty street, at Ten-Broeck avenue and Elmendorf street today. The mishap was reported to the police at 12:30 p. m. The truck is owned by Groves Trucking Co., of Port Ewen.

Fire Damages EsopusCreekCamp

The George Dingee camp near the Esopus creek off the Neighborhood road was damaged by fire early this afternoon.

Ulster Hose Company was called at 1:06 p. m., and the blaze was reported under control about an hour later.

Mrs. W. A. VanValkenburgh, said she saw smoke in the area, thought first it came from a brush fire, and then saw that the Dingee summer camp was burning. She and Mrs. Frank Shields played a garden hose on the blaze before arrival of firemen, who were called by Mrs. Gordon FitzGerald, Mrs. VanValkenburgh's daughter-in-law.

Origin of the fire was undetermined. Mrs. VanValkenburgh said the Dingees had not yet started to occupy the camp for the season.

Tokyo, May 19 (AP)—The inquiry into the capture and release of Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd by Communist war prisoners on Koje Island, Korea, shifted to Tokyo today. Gen. Mark Clark, United Nations supreme commander, named a board to study findings of a U. S. Eighth Army board in Korea on the kidnaping. It also will review recommendations by Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander. The Korea board's report was not made public.

Auto Overturned

Herbert Williams, 60, of White Plains, received a laceration to his forehead when his automobile overturned on Route 52 two miles east of Ellenville about 7:50 p. m. Sunday, state police reported. Williams was driving east on Route 52 when the automobile went out of control, troopers said. Apparently no other vehicle was involved, according to the report.

You don't need mirrors to do it! The "trick" is all wrapped up in a can labeled Devoe WONDER-1-COAT. People who have used it say it's a remarkable paint. They say since only one coat is required, repainting coats are slashed NEARLY IN HALF—often saving enough to buy a new refrigerator.

Scientists explain Devoe WONDER-1-COAT phenomenal success to unusual number of WHITENESS UNITS in every gallon. OVER DOUBLE THE WHITENESS UNITS of ordinary paints. And DEVOE WONDER-1-COAT lasts as long as two coats of ordinary paint ... has been tested on thousands of homes. Come in soon to our store. We'll be glad to give you names of reputable painting contractors who use Devoe WONDER-1-COAT.
